Over Score Killed As Planes Crash At Rio de Janeiro

Big Transport Plunges Into Water There

RIO DE JANEIRO, Nov. 8.—(AP)—At least 21 persons were killed today when a twin-engined transport plane of the Brazilian V. A. S. P. line collided with a small advertising plane and fell into Botafogo bay.

The crash occurred as the big transport was taking off from Santos Dumont airdrome.

While it plunged into the water in full view of thousands along Rio De Janeiro's waterfront, the small plane plummeled into a house and was so battered that the bodies of its three occupants could not be removed immediately.

Fifteen Were Passengers

Of the 18 killed on the transport, three were crew members and 15 were passengers, including Hernandez Cata, the Cuban minister to Brazil, and Endro Chagas, a Brizilian scientist well know in the United States.

A spokesman for the aviation authority said that despite rescue efforts, all aboard the V. A. S. P. plane were killed and 13 bodies already have been recovered.

The accident, one of the worst in Rio De Janeiro aviation history, occurred less than 10 minutes before the arrival of a Pan-American transport plane from Buenos Aires carrying an Argentine financial mission en route to Washington.

V. S. A. P. airlines began operations about three years ago with German planes and pilots. Recently it had been using Brazilian pilots and had acquired modern transports built in the United States. It operates two round trips daily between Rio De Janeiro and Sao Paulo, Brazil's second city.

Nazis Observe Memorial Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler told old guard Nazis in Munich tonight "the fight will be continued until we end it by our victory," said the German wireless in a broadcast report of his speech.

MUNICH, Nov. 8—(AP)—In the presence of Adolf Hitler the Nazi party's old guard tonight celebrated the memorial day for the party's rise to power.

The meeting of the fuehrer with the party stalwarts, including many who marched with him in the 1923 beer hall putsch, was held behind closed doors.

The usual ceremony, however, includes a march from the Buergerbrau hall to the field marshal's portico in commemoration of the Nazi revolution.

Hitler addressed the gathering tonight, according to the official announcement, which added that the text of his speech would be made public Saturday noon (4 a. m. CST).

(In New York the National Broadcasting Company, which had scheduled a broadcast of the speech today announced that word had been received from Berlin that the broadcast had been cancelled. This indicated a last minute change in the German government's plans for giving the address world publicity.)

Watch Count On Absentee Vote

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 18—(AP)—Attorney General Roy McKittrick said today he had special representatives watching the official count of Tuesday's election returns "in six or seven counties"—but he declined to name them.

The representatives were sent, he said, upon request of the county clerk or of political committeemen in the counties. His only identification of the counties involved was that "they are in eastern and central Missouri."

McKittrick said his office had answered a request from Howard county about absentee voting laws by ruling that "If a voter is not absent from his home on election day and did not contemplate being absent he cannot vote absentee."

That ruling, he explained, bars invalids and persons too ill to reach the polls from voting absentee if they were in their home communities on election day.

May Investigate As To Any Fraud

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 8—(AP)—Maurice Milligan, special assistant to Attorney General Jackson in charge of vote fraud investigations, was on his way to Washington today for a conference.

Before he left Milligan said he would not know until after his conference with Jackson into what cities his investigation would lead.

Defenders Of Greece Throw Italians Back

Artillery Blasts Along Front On A Heavy Scale

ATHENS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Italian forces were reported today to have been thrown back by Greece's defenders, both in the center sector of the mountainous border front and on the northeastern wing, where the Greeks have been in Albania since the start of the war 12 days ago.

The gains on the right wing were described as small but those in the center as important.

This center sector is where a large number of Italians were reported trapped some days ago, according to dispatches from the front, and the remnants are being encircled now, it was said.

Earlier the high command announced that all attacks on the Greek left wing, along the main defenses of the Metaxas line, near the Ionian shore, had been thrown back.

The Italians had brought the full force of their mechanized forces into the battle to crack the line near the coast in a drive toward Ioannina.

Artillery blasted along the entire front with troop fighting on a fairly heavy scale, it was said, but Greek field artillery and anti-tank guns were most active in the protection of the coastal route to Ioannina.

Neutral military experts said the Greek positions now are as good as or better than they were on the first day of the Italian offensive.

They said that the Greek advance into Albania on the Macedonian front more than offset their withdrawal 100 miles to the southwest in the Epirius region.

Everywhere, according to these observers, the Greeks apparently are operating in accordance with well-laid plans and with no break in their communications or supply organization. Both army and civilian morale appeared high, under the encouragement of British aid.

The coastal thrust toward Ioannina was the greatest threat to the Greeks.

Heavy Blow By British On The Krupp Works

Raiders of Nazis In Widely Scattered Attacks On England

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The great Krupp armament works at Essen, Germany, was left in "one huge sheet of fire" in an overnight attack by British bombers, the air ministry announced today.

Thousands of fire bombs and uncounted tons of explosives were loosed upon the plants, it was added, by a mixed force of medium and heavy bombers which pounded the workshops, machine shops and administrative building for more than four hours.

Returning pilots said they could see the resulting glow 40 miles away.

The air ministry said, through its news service, that "some of the heaviest caliber bombs yet carried into Germany were dropped," and added:

"The attack on the target began shortly after 8 p. m. under favorable weather conditions. The huge factory could not be mistaken and every bomb dropped in the first wave found its mark.

"Other bombers following close behind the leaders aimed for a chain of fires already blazing, their high explosive bombs straddling the works from end to end in a burst of vivid multi-colored

Sanction For 12,000 More Planes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—The priorities board announced today that the British purchasing commission would be permitted to negotiate orders with the American aviation industry for an additional 12,000 planes.

The action was announced very shortly after President Roosevelt told his press conference he had established a rule of thumb policy whereby Britain and Canada would be supplied 50 per cent of American defense items now coming off factory lines, including large bombers and other things needed both here and abroad.

The 12,000 planes, the board said, will be built in the existing plants and in other facilities now developing.

Great Britain already has orders in effect in this country for 14,000 planes, President Roosevelt said in his Boston campaign address last week. At the same time he had announced that Britain had asked the defense commission's priorities board to give "most sympathetic consideration" to the request.

The board said today it was intended, under plans now being devised, to gear construction of the British planes to American production in such a way as to prevent interference with American defense requirements.

"The questions of delivery priorities is being studied," the board said in a brief formal statement. "They will be fixed at appropriate

Asks Inquiry On Social Security

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8.—(AP)—In a statement charging Missouri with failure to provide "adequate funds" for old-age pensions and relief, Congressman John J. Cochran, Democrat, called upon the new governor and state legislature today to investigate the entire state social security setup.

Cochran, who was re-elected Tuesday from the thirteenth (St. Louis) district, issued the statement before departing for Washington.

"It is the duty of the legislature and incoming governor to provide an immediate investigation of the State Social Security Commission, of its operations, and determine precisely the amount that is necessary to carry out state laws, not only to pay the aged but for proper administration, and to see that that amount is appropriated," he declared.

Cochran asserted "I am really ashamed of my own state for the manner that the social security laws of the state have been administered."

"There should be a revision of the rules and regulations," his statement continued. "I could recite dozens of the most distressing cases where, due to rules and regulations, honorable aged citizens receive no help from the state of Missouri."

Armistice Day To Be Observed

Parade Monday To Precede Program Near Doughboy

Sedalia's three veterans organizations, the American Legion, Disabled Army Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, are cooperating in working out a joint Armistice Day celebration in Sedalia on Monday, November 11. Committees from the three organizations met Thursday night at the offices of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce and completed plans for the annual celebration.

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, of Sedalia, has been selected to give the principal address during the services to be held at the American Legion Doughboy in front of the court house, it was announced today by Joe Reid, chairman of the arrangements.

A parade will be held on Ohio avenue starting at 10:15 o'clock from Broadway and Ohio avenue. The route will be north on Ohio to Sixth street, east to Lamine, thence north to Third street, west to Ohio and back south on Ohio avenue to the west lawn of the court house.

Bands Be in Parade

The Smith-Cotton high school band and the Lincoln high school bands will participate as will various patriotic organizations, included are Girl and Boy Scouts, Spanish American War Veterans, the three organizations making plans for the celebration and any organization which desires to participate.

Mr. Reid stressed a desire to have all of the selective service enrollees to participate in the parade. They are to march in a body, and it is hoped a good majority will report for the parade and celebration.

The parade upon arriving at the Doughboy will disband and gather upon the court house lawn. Prior to 11 o'clock the two school bands will play several selections, at 11 o'clock a two-minute silence will be had.

Placing of wreaths will be done by Mrs. Jennie Hilligoss, Gold Star Mother, and by Mrs. Caroline Webb Koock, widow of the late Captain Charles Koock of the Civil War, representing the auxiliary of the G. A. R.

The invocation will be given by Reverend Walter P. Arnold, of the East Sedalia Baptist church, chaplain of the Pettis County Post No. 16, American Legion, and the benediction will be given by Reverend Ralph E. Hurd, of the Epworth M. E. church.

Community singing will also be held.

Closing the services a firing squad composed of members of the local United States Veterans C. C. C. camp in Sedalia will fire a three-volley salute. Taps will be sounded by Charles F. Hartenbach a Spanish American War veteran.

Order Numbers Posted Today

The local draft board today posted on the bulletin board in the court house lobby, on the second floor, the order numbers of the young men registered. In the first column is the serial number and the order number in the left hand column.

Symphony Will Play Tuesday

With a personnel of 50 local musicians, the Sedalia Symphony orchestra will open its 1940-41 concert season with a program of unusual merit Tuesday night at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium.

Exceptional enthusiasm has been evidenced at the rehearsals, Abe Rosenthal, who begins his sixth season as conductor, reports. The soloist at the first concert will be Joseph E. Wilkins, tenor, of the Fine Arts School of the University of Kansas. He will be accompanied by Mrs. Wilkins.

In response to many requests the programs this year will include some numbers of "lighter vein," according to the director. As a feature at the opening concert there will be a special orchestra arrangement of "God Bless America" with the girls of the Smith-Cotton Spiz club, under the direction of Burney Morris, participating.

The ticket sale is now being conducted under the directon of Mrs. H. C. Johnson, who heads a group of 40 Sedalia women who are distributing the tickets. Mrs. Johnson points out that anyone making contributions to the orchestra fund after the season ticket sale, will receive credit for that amount.

According to John Z. Montgomery, business manager, it will be necessary to sell a large number of tickets to insure Sedalians of the fine type of programs that have been presented in the past and "that our people can expect," Mr. Rosenthal adds.

Donnell Lead In Race Cut

Tabulation On Absentees Slowed Down By Protests

ST. LOUIS, Nov. —(AP)—With GOP challenges slowing the count in some sections, Lawrence E. McDaniel bit into Forrest C. Donnell's slim lead for governor of Missouri today as officials tallied the all-important absentee ballots.

Both major parties had observers on hand in every section of the state. Protests put many of the mail votes in the "doubtful" class.

Donnell's margin had been peeled to 3,752 at 3 p. m. The revised totals at that hour were Donnell 905,999; McDaniel 902,247.

The absentee vote in 25 counties gave McDaniel 1232 and Donnell 840—an edge of about 62 per cent for the Democrat. Those counties included some of the banner Democratic neighborhods but did not take in populous St. Louis, Kansas City and St. Louis county.

If 12,000 absentee votes were cast, as indicated, McDaniel could nose out Donnell by carrying slightly more than 66 per cent of them.

Republican protests slowed the absentee tabulation in several counties—significantly in three of the "Little Dixie" group which stuck overwhelmingly to its Democratic tradition in Tuesday's election.

Protests Are Lodged

In Randolph and Howard counties Republicans lodged protests against absentee votes cast by railroaders who live in the division points of Moberly and New Franklin. The Republicans argued several of the railroaders voted absentee although they were home on election day.

Chariton county's vote also was delayed by disputes. In several sections Republicans challenged the absentee votes of hospital patients.

"We are protecting our interests where we have information which inclines us to be suspicious," said GOP national committeeman, Barak T. Mattingly in explaining the protests which appeared to be scattered over the state.

"We have wired all county chairmen giving our view on the law and where there is a shortage of local attorneys we are supplying them from nearby communities."

Lawyers have been sent to neighboring counties from St. Louis, Kansas City, Jefferson City, Hannibal, Moberly and other cities.

Mattingly said it was the state committee's attitude that anyone who did not intend to leave his home county on election day could not vote absentee. His position would preclude "shut-ins"—hospital patients, invalids at home and the like.

Stiffer Stand For Domestic Issues Ahead

Tussles In Congress Forecast On Some Of Legislation

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Resurgent Republican strength reflected in the steadily growing totals of Tuesday's presidential vote presaged today some stiff political tussles over domestic issues in the months ahead.

As new tabulations swelled President Roosevelt's third term vote to greater proportions and simultaneously raised Wendell L. Willkie's record Republican ballot total, it became increasingly clear that on many policies the Democratic administration in the next four years would face a more determined and enthusiastic opposition than it has in the last eight.

President Roosevelt gave no indication in his campaign of contemplating a major program of new legislation for submission to the next congress in January.

In effect, he told the voters that his first term had been given to launching what he considered necessary reforms, his second term had been devoted to consolidating "advances," and his third term would be devoted to forwarding those accomplishments while helping the nation weather the great world "storm" now raging.

The first broad new statement of Republican plans to be made since the election will be given by Willkie Monday night (9:30-10 p. m. CST) in an address broadcast from New York. Announcing this last night after a conference with Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., and other party leaders, Willkie said that "in view of the fact that between 22,000,000 and 23,000,000 people voted for me I feel an obligation to state my position."

Popular Vote Figures

Latest tabulations of the election results meanwhile gave this picture of the standing of the two candidates with 120,444 voting units already counted out of 127,245:

President Roosevelt—Carried 38 states with a total electoral vote of 449. His popular vote stood at 26,265,134.

Wendell Willkie — Carried 10 states with a total electoral vote of 82. His popular vote stood at 21,787,102.

The Republican reaction to this total, the highest ever won by a Republican candidate, was sum-

Parade Nov. 26 For The Holidays

Preparations are underway by the Christmas trade program of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce for the annual Christmas parade, which this year will be at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Tuesday, November 26.

Jack Crawford is chairman of the parade committee, other members being Ben Robinson and Guy Peabody.

Four out of town bands have already accepted an invitation to participate, Tipton, California, Slater and Smithton.

Into A Snarl After Count Is Made Of Absentee Ballots

Republicans Make Gains In Legislature

Heavily Slice In Democrats In The State Assembly

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9—(AP)—Republicans sliced heavily into the dominant Democratic majority of Missouri's house of representatives in Tuesday's election.

Still incomplete returns today showed the GOP virtually assured of 65 seats—a gain of 15—with some counties still to be heard from. The 65 is still 11 seats short of a majority.

Although all the Democratic leaders who asked re-election were returned overwhelmingly, at least seven Democrat incumbents were defeated through the Republican gains. All the Republican leaders were returned except Caucus Chairman D. Raymond Carter—and he moved up to the senate to succeed W. E. Freeland of Forsythe in the Nineteenth district.

The bid by former speaker, Willis Meredith, to come back to the legislature he left several years ago was rejected by Butler county voters who gave the seat to Fred W. Norden, a Republican.

The Republicans will have one place in the Jackson county delegation, for years dominated by affiliates of the once-powerful Pendergast organization. Only three incumbent Democrats from Jackson county tried to come back this year—and all made it.

Some Of Missing

Missing will be Max Asotsky, dean of the house; William H. Lafferty, Democratic caucus chairman; former floor leader, Ed J. Keating, V. E. Phillips and others. None of them sought reelection this year. The St. Louis delegation of 19 Democrats will be about as it was last session.

Mrs. Gladys Stewart, Republican of Douglas county, for years the only woman house member, will have company from her own sex in the 1940 session. Macye Maness, a Democrat, was elected in Ripley county and there may be some other feminine lawmakers, including one additional Republican.

GOP Canvassers In Refusal To Certify Ballots

The canvassing of the 220 absentee votes in Pettis county made Thursday, was completed about 9 o'clock that night, but the judges and witnesses, Democrats and Republicans, concluded the counting in a heated argument, and a Republican judge and clerk, Carl G. Schrader and John T. Martin, respectively, refused to sign the tally sheet.

They contended that several of the ballots were counted, which they had reason to believe were not in proper order, and that challengers who made their appearance were refused admittance. The Democrats, on the other hand, said that the Republican judges had been receiving notes from Republican county committee members, asking them to check certain ballots, and they objected to this procedure, stating it was unlawful. They contended further that this challenging could only be done by those who were designated to make the count or to be witnesses.

Interest On Assessor

The greatest interest was in the race for assessor between John W. Menefee, democrat and present incumbent, running for a third term, and Lawson Clingan, Republican. Clingan was leading Menefee in the unofficial count of the ballots other than the absentee, but Menefee received 150 and Clingan 61 when that count was made, and Menefee is now leading by twelve votes.

Menefee's unofficial tabulation was 8,569 votes and Lawson Clingan, Republican was 8,646 with the absentee count being, Menefee, 150, and Clingan 61.

Ed Goetz, Republican County Committee chairman, made his appearance in the room during the counting, according to Frank Armstrong and William Brown, Democratic officials, and when his actions became such that they felt he was improperly remaining in the room they ordered him to "get out," it was said.

Armstrong and Brown both declared they would have ordered anyone else out of the counting room had they appeared, in accordance with the election laws which state that no one other than election officials be permitted to enter that room.

Both Chairman Sam Harlan of the Democratic Committee and Mr. Goetz were present in the outer office of Clerk Rissler during the late procedure and were kept busy checking the election book for rulings on the affair of the officials.

The general trend of the absentee vote was the Democrats leading 143 to the Republicans 68, with the exception of the Menefee-Clingan vote.

The Republican judges statement, subscribed and sworn to by W. B. Rissler, Pettis county clerk was as follows:

We, the undersigned being duly appointed canvassers of the returns of the general election held on the 5th Day of November 1940 of Pettis County Missouri, for the purpose of opening and counting the ballots of absent voters at the general election held on the 5th day of November 1940 state as our reason for failure to sign the certificate of canvasses of absentee vote, register books, and other books, blanks and forms required and the election returns that the other canvassers or judges refused to permit persons who were electors to appear for the purpose of challenging the qualifications of voters or persons who had applied for and voted absentee ballots, which were being canvassed, and because information has been given the undersigned that the votes of disqualified persons are included in the count as tallied.

Electoral College Is Assailed And Upheld In Discussions

By DON YOUNG

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The electoral college—that comparatively little known institution of 150 years standing—today found itself alternately assailed as a "relic" and upheld as a wise precaution of the founding fathers.

Although, there is even a serious question about the origin of its name, it is the electoral college which will do the official electing of President Roosevelt by a 449-to-82 vote over Wendell L. Willkie. The actual election of a chief executive is not, strictly speaking, by direct vote of the people.

According to the constitution, subsequent laws, precedents and custom, presidential electors chosen by the people will cast their votes for a president as a unit in each state December 16, and their ballots will be counted by congress here in January.

Presumably each elector will vote according to the majority as expressed in the popular vote which elected him—but he would be perfectly within his rights if he voted for another candidate. As a matter of fact one elector did bolt and vote for a defeated rival candidate after the presidential election in 1796.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass), criticizing the electoral college was a "relic of the past," announced he would introduce in congress a constitutional amendment "to require presidential election to be settled by the vote of the people."

He said that the college "serves no useful purpose" and made it possible for a candidate with a majority of the popular vote to be defeated.

Brought Ready Dissent

His proposal brought an immediate dissent from William Tyler Page, capitol employe for 50 years and clerk of the house for 12 of them—from 1919 to 1931.

"That," Page said with a smile, "would be like jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. It would give the preponderance of power to the most populous states.

"Suppose that, in the election just held, there was a close popular vote and the result depended on 2,000,000 votes. Now, the south would toss its preponderance of about 2,000,000 votes to we'll say Mr. Roosevelt, and that would offset the sum total of small majorities in states like New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and so on.

"It's conceivable that a small state like Wyoming might decide an election. We'd have a case of the tail wagging the dog.

"No, there's a lot to be said against abolishing the system."

Page said the phrase "electoral college" appeared to have grown into common usage comparatively recently.

The constitution merely stated that each state should "appoint" electors, but it set up no machinery for their operation. The date for their voting was set for the first Monday after the second Wednesday in December, which still stands. Their ballots are forwarded to Washington by registered mail now and officially counted in January when the new congress convenes.

"The electoral system as established under the original constitution was a compromise in the constitutional convention to equalize the little states with the big ones," Page said.

"Now, with the growth of a two-party system, the electors have a moral obligation to vote according to the wishes of the majority which elected them."

Program On Health Features BPW Club's Dinner Meeting

The Sedalia Business and Professional Women's club met in a dinner session at Hotel Bothwell Thursday night and the program was in charge of the health committee, of which Miss Bettye Fields is chairman.

Miss Margaret Ferguson, first vice-president, presided as chairman of the meeting, taking the place of Mrs. Ruth Riley club president, who is attending a BPWC convention in New Orleans.

Mrs. Merle Elliott, club chaplain, gave the devotional, and the group singing was led by Miss Anna Marie Morseman, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lillian Fox. Mrs. Alberta M. Zernichow sang "Love's Old Sweet Song," as a solo, the club joining in the chorus.

There were three guest speakers, all representatives of the state board of health, Dr. James W. Chapman, director of public health, Dr. Allen O. Gruebel, director of the dental division both from the Jefferson City office, and Dr. James R. Amos, of Higginsville, public health director of division 8, of which Pettis county is a part.

Three Other Guests

Guests other than the speakers were Mrs. Lucy D. Scott, who recently moved to Sedalia from Brookfield, Mrs. O. L. Scott, and Miss Mabel Vanbibber, the last named of Chillicothe.

Preceding the talks there was a program by pupils of the Spookie Fischer Edwards dance class, a song and dance by Mary Ann Johnson, another by Patsy Jenkins, Betty Freund and Jayne Ann Mater, and one by Betty Rose, Mary Ann Johnson and Elaine Ehrler, Mrs. Kenneth Lower accompanied them on the piano.

Dr. Chapman, the first speaker, gave a history of the United States Public Health Service, which dates back to 1796, when arrangements were made to take care of sailors who came into ports and required medical care.

He said that the purpose of his department is primarily to take care of, and prevent disease among the people who are not financially able to pay for treatment. He mentioned a new branch of service, that of inspecting all airplanes, and examining all passengers, who come into the United States from South America.

Urges Dental Care

Dr. Gruebbel spoke on the necessity of dental care, stating that contrary to former opinions, children should now be taken to dentists and have their teeth and mouth examined at the age of three.

Half the children in the United States, he said, enter school with defective teeth, and to have sound first teeth is just as important to a person as having sound second teeth. He said too that those things which build good teeth are not the expensive foods, but simple nourishing foods, such as green vegetables and meats.

Dr. Amos spoke of the district health work, a program to prevent illness through education.

Members of Miss Field's committee, who arranged for the meeting, are Miss Reba Gum, Miss Hortense Neighbors, Miss Rosebud Cundiff, Miss Dorothy Bacon, Mrs. Layde Renshaw, Mrs. Gertrude Dorsey Berlin and Mrs. Alberta M. Zernickow.

The United States Goes To College

Did you vote for Franklin D. Roosevelt or Wendell Willkie for president on Tuesday, Nov. 5?

You voted for electors, who you hope and expect will vote in the electoral college for the candidate of your choice. That is the unique college to which all the United States goes, once every four years, to find out whom it has elected its president.

Those electors, for whom you really voted, will meet and THEY will vote for the presidential candidates. The result of their vote will be forwarded to Washington, there tabulated with similar votes in other states, and the result is the official election of a president.

A long way around to achieve a result everybody knows about anyway? Perhaps. Some people think it ought to be eliminated as a useless snarl of red tape, to say nothing of the possibility that the electors just might possibly get together and vote for somebody you didn't intend them to vote for at all.

• • •

It all started when the country was young, and had fewer than 4,000,000 people, most of whom were not allowed to vote. Even this restricted suffrage was not trusted. It was felt that the voters ought to delegate the right to choose a president to a select group of respected citizens. These would be chosen by the voters for their standing and judgment, and they, in their wisdom, would choose anybody they thought best for president.

Their number, too, equal in each state to the number of senators and representatives, guaranteed minimum representation to each state as such, no matter how small.

But after this college had twice elected Washington, parties sprang up, and the idea became more and more firmly entrenched that the electors were to be pledged in advance to vote for a specific candidate, thus reducing them from a choice-making body to a mere transmission belt for a choice made by the voters themselves.

• • •

Thus we are reminded every four years of two things: first, that our government is more democratic today than when it was first set up, and second, that it is a federal union of sovereign states, and that our presidents are chosen by the vote of the people of the states as such, and not directly by the mass of all the people.

This sometimes produces the phenomenon of a president getting the required number of electoral college votes and being elected, while actually having a majority of the popular vote. That is because he may have great majorities in the states he carries, while losing others by only a few votes. This occasionally creates some bad feeling, yet it is hard to see that such feeling would be any less if a candidate turned up with a majority of 10 votes out of 50,000,000 cast.

This odd and atavistic "college" has been functioning for 152 years and bids fair to turn out many another "graduate."

If democracy in our home towns does not function, then we cannot expect to maintain it nationally.—C. A. Dykstra, president, National Municipal League.

Regardless of the outcome, no Englishman is ever again going to be able to assume a ruling position by birthright or heredity.—Eric Sevareid, broadcaster returned from the European front.

• The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson and Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON—The presidential inauguration is nearly three months off but already white-overalled carpenters are busy erecting stands and seats on Capitol Plaza. Reason for this unusual haste is—the defense program.

"If we waited much longer," explains David Lynn, veteran Capitol architect, "we wouldn't be able to get any lumber. The erection of the great camps for the selective service trainees has caused a shortage in the lumber market. The government is buying up all the good lumber it can get for the cantonments."

The lumber shortage also will affect the seating capacity. There will be room for only 12,500 spectators—2,000 less than in 1937. Congress appropriated the same amount of money as four years ago, but with increased material and lumber costs the $35,000 isn't going as far.

British Dilemma

Diplomats are still puzzled why the Italians invaded Greece at the time they did. In fact, rumors are recurrent that there has been a certain cooling off between Rome and Berlin, and that Mussolini barged into Greece without telling his axis partner.

Whether this rumor is true nobody can yet tell, for the simple reason that only about four men participate in the Mussolini-Hitler conversations. But lending some credence to it is the fact that the Italians have made little headway, and seem to be relatively unprepared.

Real truth, according to intelligence reports received here, is that the Italian army has not the slighest enthusiasm for its job. Reports continue that the Italian people also don't like the role of Balkan conquest which has been cut out for them.

Meanwhile, no matter what may be the real situation between Hitler and Mussolini, it remains a fact that the British face a tough proposition in giving any real help to Greece. (So far they have not landed more than 20,000 men.

One look at the map of the Mediterranean shows what the British are up against. They have three war arenas which they must protect, and only a limited number of men and ships in the Mediterranean. The three areas are: (1) Egypt; (2) Greece; and (3) Gibraltar.

British Caught in Trap

In Egypt, the British army of about 125,000 men faces an Italian army of 200,000. This has been sufficient so far to keep the Italians at bay. But now the British face a new menace. For the talks between Hitler and Marshal Petain contemplate the use of French Syria against them. In Syria are about 100,000 French Arab troops which might be sent down through Palestine to take Suez.

In other words, the British might be caught between the pincers of Graziani's army on one side in Egypt, and the French Syrian army on the other side. This might make the problem of protecting Suez desperate. And that is why the British can't send many troops to help Greece.

Another reason why they can't give further help to Greece is their fear that the attack on Greece is a feint to get all Britain's Mediterranean fleet concentrated in the east. Then Germany would attack Gibraltar in the west. This, of course, would mean perfect teamwork between the two dictators; and it may be that they put out the rumor of a rift merely to catch the British off-guard. They have been known to do things like that.

Meanwhile, the Germans continue to pour troops into Rumania. They are not only re-training the Rumanian army under Nazi strategy, but they are also bringing in tons of German munitions. So it looks as if Hitler would put the squeeze on Greece from the Bulgarian side when the time comes. That time may not come for a while, because Hitler has shown that he seldom moves until he is fully prepared.

With the Italians on one side, and the Germans on the other, probably not even 100 per cent support from the British could save Greece.

Conscientious Objectors

The war department is finding that bona fide conscientious objectors actually are ready to put themselves in as great physical danger as soldiers.

Quakers, Mennonites, Seventh Day Adventists and other groups opposed to war on conscientious grounds, have told selective service officials they won't bear a gun against their fellow men, but they have no hesitation in taking jobs at the front where the hazard is high.

Quakers, Mennonites, and Amish will engage in building field fortifications which put them squarely in the line of attack. Seventh Day Adventists are preparing a medical corps of cadets who will give first aid on the field of battle.

For all such persons of sincere principles, the selective service is planning jobs which cannot contribute to killing, but can contribute to defense or to saving lives. The only sect which might come in for trouble is "Jehovah's Witnesses," whose refusal to salute the flag it hard to handle them in any army activity.

Conscientious objection is no ground, however, for refusing to register. And objectors will serve their full year of training like men in the regular fighting forces.

19-Hour Day

Between the fire and the fire-water, General George Marshall, U. S. Chief of Staff, had a busy day.

When fire broke out in the Munitions building, Marshall was on hand at four in the morning. He had a press conference at six, went home for breakfast, was back at seven-thirty.

He worked through the morning, lunched with Latin American officers, worked through the afternoon, then attended a cocktail party at the army war college.

That would have provided enough fire-water for Marshall for one day, but he had more social duties. He went to the Argentine embassy for dinner, drank a toast to the Argentinne General Mohr, and went home at eleven—nineteen hours after he got out of bed.

I have no uncertainty that we will be able to place America in an impregnable position.—A. P. Sloan, General Motors chairman.

Not only do these young men represent the future of our country; they are the future.—President Roosevelt at the first draft drawing.

The free way of life has got to justify itself or perish.—Jan Struther, novelist.

Barker's Choices In Football Games To Be On Saturday

By Herb Barker

NEW YORK, Nov. 8—(AP)— Taking another crack at the football guessing game with no money refunded, cheerfully or otherwise:

Minnesota-Michigan: Might decide the Western conference title in this one, particularly if Minnesota wins. No unbeaten team in the land has waded through quite such a schedule as the Gophers. They must hold Tommy Harmón within reasonable bounds to get by undefeated Michigan which in turn will have to keep sharp watch on Bruce Smith and George Franck. By the toss of a coin, Minnesota.

Southern Methodist-Texas A. & M.: The Mustangs are plenty tough and might break Texas A. & M.'s long string but this corner prefers to string with the Aggies.

Stanford-Washington: This gets worse the longer it goes. Stanford's unbeaten, and Washington would be too, except for its opening game with powerful Minnesota. Maybe this is where the Indians get off but we'll tag along with Stanford to the bitter end.

Cornell-Yale: Should be batting practice for the Big Red. Cornell.

Fordham-Purdue: The Boilermakers are unlucky and Mike Byelene may not be in shape for much service, influencing this vote for Fordham.

Columbia-Wisconsin: What do you do in a case like this? Can't tell what Wisconsin is going to do next. In a deep fog, Wisconsin.

Navy-Notre Dame: Navy's strong but the Tars can't seem to make their power pay off. Taking Notre Dame.

Alabama-Tulane: This looks like a real tussle. Out of the hat, Alabama.

Penn-Harvard: The Crimson seems to be on the upgrade but Penn must be the choice.

Princeton-Dartmouth: Taking Princeton despite the Tigers' lack of a running attack.

Army-Brown: Very tough to figure. The Cadets hardly can be counted on to hit the same peak they did for Notre Dame. A doubtful vote for Army.

Holy Cross-Mississippi: Doesn't seem to be much hope for Holy Cross here. Mississippi.

Manhattan-Marquette: Taking Manhattan.

Northwestern-Illinois: Looks safe for Northwestern.

Detroit-Texas Christian: Each lost to Tulsa by a touchdown which is no help to this guesser. By the coin, Detroit.

Indiana-Michigan State: An extremely shaky vote for Michigan State.

Auburn-Clemson: And one of the same kind for Auburn.

Florida-Georgia: The Bulldogs are moving along. Georgia.

Kentucky-Georgia Tech: Tech seems to have collapsed. Kentucky.

Louisiana State-Mississippi State Stringing along with the Mississippians.

Furman-Virginia Tech: Two surprise teams collide. In a complete dither, Furman.

Richmond-North Carolina: North Carolina, handily.

Duke-Davidson: Shouldn't be any worries for Duke.

North Carolina State-Wake Forest: Like Wake Forest.

South Carolina-Kansas State: No basis for comparison but a flier on Al Gryo and South Carolina.

Virginia-Washington & Lee: Virginia mislaid its scoring punch somewhere. But just to be stubborn, Virginia.

Kansas-Oklahoma: Should be easy for Oklahoma.

Colorado-Missouri: Taking Missouri.

Tulsa-Catholic: Could be close but taking Tulsa.

Texas-Baylor: Anything can happen in this conference. Still Texas.

Southern California-California: Plenty close but Southern California should be thoroughly rested and gets the nod here.

Oregon-UCLA: After losing six straight by a touchdown or less, UCLA finally should win one.

Oregon State-Washington State: Close enough. Oregon State.

Maryland-Georgetown: Should be no risk for unbeaten Georgetown.

Syracuse-Penn State: The Nittany Lions' great forward wall should be decisive. Penn State.

Temple-Villanova: The coin says Villanova.

New York University-Franklin & Marshall: NYU might break its losing streak here but it's doubtful. F. & M.

Also: Boston College over Boston University; Iowa State over Drake; Vanderbilt over Sewanee; Tennessee over Southwestern (Tennessee); William & Mary over Randolph Macon; Washington University over Virginia Military; Utah over Wyoming; Denver over Brigham Young; Colorado State over Utah State; George Washington over Bucknell; Williams over Wesleyan.

Healthy Democracy—

A woman told me she attended a party the day after election and that during the afternoon not one word was mentioned about election results or politics. After such a heated and spirited election, she thought this a strange post-election reaction of the people who before the contest were extremely voluable and opinionated about the relative merits of the candidates. This same situation has been noticeable among groups of men. There is some discussion about the peculiarities of the vote for individual candidates, but in general the winners have won and that's all there is to it. The issues that caused so much verbal contention are dead as a conversational topic—completely taboo. This is all to the good. It will stimulate unity.

Therefore it is rather amaing to discover, in spite of the Democratic national victory, that the biggest die-hard is Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes. His candidate won, but he still wants to keep on fighting. The newspapers as a group are preaching unity—get behind the President now and build America. But Die-Hard Ickes claims the press is not free and wants the newspapers to engage in a discussion of the campaign issues. Why bring this up now?

Ickes is sometimes called the "hatchet-man." He has tendered his resignation to Mr. Roosevelt as a gesture of good will. As another gesture of good will someone ought to take Honest Harold's hatchet away from him before he cuts his own throat. Nothing would be more healthy for the unity program than for Mr. Roosevelt to accept Mr. Ickes' resignation with thanks. The country would feel a little more easier if some of these disturbers were returned to private life.

Champions For 1939 To Clash At Boulder

Oklahoma May Slip Into Second Place Saturday

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 8.—(AP)—This looks like "kick 'em when they're down week" for Big Six football teams.

It's not that the Big Six-ers would take picks on an under-dog but just the quirks of the gridiron gods.

Oklahoma figures to slip into undisputed second place Saturday by pasting crippled Kansas, which has defeated only Drake of the Missouri Valley conference this season. The Sooner-Jayhawk affair is the only league game of the day.

Nebraska, which lacks just a few formal stitches of sewing up the Big Six championship renews its rivalry with Iowa University in the year everyone is kicking Eddie Anderson's boys around. The Huskers passed up Iowa last season when Anderson loosed Nile Kinnick on unsuspecting foes.

Nebraska figures to take the Kinnick-less Iowans, but not by any big margin.

Kansas State's Wildcats see a gleam of hope 'way down south, so are speeding toward Columbia, S. C., for a shot at South Carolina's gamecocks. The Wildcats have beaten only Emporia, Kas., Teachers and Kansas U.—but the Gamecocks haven't won a game this fall.

Iowa State, conqueror of Kansas, figures to get past Drake. It's the farewell home game for big Hank Wilder and eight other Cyclone seniors.

Missouri is conceded an edge over Colorado by some writers but possibly has the slightest margin of any of the Big Six favorites. The game in Boulder is a meeting of the 1939 champions of the Big Six and Mountain Big Seven conferences. Mizzou already has been dethroned and the Bisons are hoping for a tie for the 1940 gonfalon after being tripped by Utah State last week-end.

Kansas celebrates its golden jubilee of football Saturday and at least five members of that team of 1890 will be in the stands.

Although Oklahoma and Kansas have met 37 times, with the Jayhawks holding an 18 to 15 edge in victories, their thirty-eight clash will be the Sooners' first homecoming visit.

Kansas has won two of the last five decisions but the Jayhawks haven't scored more than once against the Sooners since 1930.

Just when Coach Gwinn Henry was relaxing a bit after seeing his Kansas hospital list diminish, reserve end Paul Conway fell down a flight of stairs and re-injured his two broken ribs.

Ends have caused Henry much of his worries this fall. John Bob O'Neil all have been hospitalized since Steve Renko, veteran flanker, was cut up in a summer traffic mishap and did not return to school.

Nebrask's biggest job will be to keep Bill Green, Iowa's fullback, in check. He leads the Big Ten ground gainers with 225 yards in 49 tires and is tied with George Franck of Minnesota for the Big Ten scoring lead with 24 points.

Iowa State and Drake tangle for "Old Brassie," a polished bell given by C. C. Gardner of Des Moines, a railroad official. Drake won it last season at its first appearance and the 7 to 0 score is burned into the wooden mountings.

Reporter Who Escaped From Crumbling Bridge Tells Story

EDITOR'S NOTE: Leonard Coatsworth, Tacoma News-Tribune reporter, barely escaped death today as the Tacoma Narrows bridge—third longest in the world—crumbled and fell into Puget Sound. Here is his story:

By LEONARD COATSWORTH

(Copyright, 1940, by the Tacoma, Wash., News Tribune.)

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 8—(AP)—I saw the Narrows bridge die Thursday, and only by the grace of God escaped dying with it.

I have been near death many times in my life, but not even in my worst experiences in France did I experience the feeling of helpless horror that gripped me when I was trapped on the bridge.

Before starting over the bridge I had driven underneath the approach to watch the motion. x x The undulations were more rapid than I had ever seen before. This, however, was the only difference I saw from other times when a storm breeze was blowing.

I drove over the bridge and started across. In the car with me was my daughter's Cocker Spaniel, Tubby. Not until I reached the first towers did I realize something was terribly wrong.

Begins To Sway

Either just as I reached the towers, or just as I drove past them, the bridge began to sway violently from side to side. This was something new in my experience with the bridge. Heretofore, the noticeable motion has been up and down and undulating.

Before I realized it, the tilt from side to side became so violent I lost control of the car. I jammed on the brakes and got out, only to be thrown onto my face against the curb. I tried to stand and was thrown again. Around me I could hear the concrete cracking.

I started back to the car to get the dog, but was thrown before I could reach it. The car itself began to slide from side to side on the roadway. I decided the bridge was breaking up and my only hope was to get back to shore.

Crawls To Towers

On hands and knees most of the time I crawled 500 yards or more to the towers. Across the roadway from me I became aware of another man, alternately crawling and then running a few steps in a crouched position.

My breath was coming in gasps, my knees were raw and bleeding, by hands bruised and swollen from gripping the concrete curb. But I was spurred by the thought that if I could reach the towers I would be safe.

Breath Gives Out

Finally my breath gave out completely and I lay in the roadway, clutching the curb until I could breathe again, and then resumed my tortuous progress.

Toward the last I risked rising to my feet and running a few yards at a time. The man on the other side gained the towers before I did and I envied his better endurance.

I believe that right at this minute what appals me most is that within a few hours I must tell my daughter that her dog is dead, when I might have saved him.

HARD of HEARING?
Mrs. Anna Cowley, San Angelo, Texas, Says "'Orotune' Is the Best Medicine I Ever Found for My Hearing."
Hard impacted wax is a common cause of temporary, partial DEAFNESS, BUZZING, RINGING HEAD NOISES, CLOGGED UP FEELING, DIZZINESS. To remove hard wax that blocks ear canals and presses on sensitive ear drums, use Orotone Ear Drops as directed. They are SAFE—painless—and you'll be amazed how CLEARLY and DISTINCTLY you HEAR again—how much better you feel when impacted wax is out.

Congress May End Shortly

Several Major Proposals Pend For Next Session

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Prospects for the enactment of a half dozen pending major legislative proposals slumped today as congressmen, the election over, showed a marked inclination to wind up this session's business by a sine die adjournment within the next 10 days.

Even should a formal request materialize by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau for additional taxes and an expansion of the federal borrowing authority, it appeared unlikely that it would swerve Democratic leaders from a determination to put off further work until January—a determination that found sympathy with some Republican chieftains.

An adjournment now, in effect, would kill four house approved measures and at least two important resolutions pending in the senate.

Supporters of Wagner act amendments, the Logan-Walter bill to facilitate court appeals from the decisions of government agencies, the anti-lynching measure and the Ramspeck civil service bill would lose the ground they gained in winning house passage of these measures and would have to start all over again in the next session.

Only the Ramspeck bill, which would permit the president to bring approximately 200,000 employes of so-called "temporary" government agencies under the civil service, was in a slightly different category from the others since it was approved in carrying form by both the houses and needed only the completion of a satisfactory compromise to win final passage.

The other three measures were awaiting senate action, along with a proposal by Senator King (D-Utah) to relax legal restrictions to permit the extension of credits to Great Britain and a resolution by Senator Tydings (D-Md) to investigate the government's fiscal setup with a view toward recommending an approach to a balanced budget.

Doubt "Pay As You Go"

Secretary Morgenthau told reporters yesterday that he didn't believe it was possible at this time to put government expenditures on a "pay as you go" basis because of prospective increases in defense spending, adding "We've just begun to rearm."

The treasury, he said, had found itself in a "difficult position" because the old debt limitation of $45,000,000,000 was "practically reached" and congress had limited a previously approved increase of $4,000,000,000 restricted to use for financing of defense outlays.

For this reason Morgenthau said he would seek relaxation of the latter restriction, higher taxes and an increase of from $15,000,000,000 to $20,000,000,000 in the debt limitation.

Speaker Rayburn of the house made it plain, however, that unless there was a more pressing demand for action, congress probably would put off consideration of these questions until January.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, likewise told reporters that he saw no reason why congress shouldn't quit after the election. Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, has indicated he would offer no strenuous opposition to such a course.

Morgenthau's request for a substantial increase in the debt limitation met prompt opposition from Senator Byrd (D-Va), a member of the so-called 'economy' bloc, who said any large boost would be "an incentive for further extravagances in government."

Republicans Make Gains In Legislature

Shelby county, Ed. R. Caldwell of Ralls, William B. Weakley of Pike Roy Hamlin of Marion and H. P. Lauf of Cole all won re-election. From among that group may come the officers of the new legislature.

Both Osburn and Caldwell have been mentioned for the speakership which went open when Dr. J. G. Christy voluntarily retired from the legislature. He was the speaker three times. Hamlin was floor leader of the last session.

Some sources said Weakley, who introduced the pyrotechnic Kansas City police bill in the last session, might take over the chairmanship of the powerful house appropriations committee. John D. Taylor, last session's chairman, will not be back in 1941, having given up his seat to make an unsuccessful race for attorney general.

Among the Republican leaders, William Barton of Montgomery county, Howard Elliott of St. Louis county and O. B. Whittaker of Hickory will be back. Barton was minority floor leader in the last session.

None of the Republican incumbents were defeated on the face of incomplete returns. Casualties among the Democratic incumbents include these:

Z. A. Cleaton of Sullivan, J. N. Williams of Texas, M. T. Devine of Cooper, Fred McGuire of Grundy, H. W. Garrison of Newton, Paul Dessieux of Osage and Chas. Barrett of Madison.

Stiffer Stand For Domestic Issues Ahead

Announcing for "national unity" and for a "strong defense," he said "It is our purpose to take full advantage of the new and progressive leadership and support that has come to us in this campaign."

"We shall support the president," he added, "When not in conflict with the great principles for which we fought in this crusade."

To this he added the prediction that "in 1942 we will elect a Republican congress and prepare the way for a greater victory in 1944."

Republican strength in the presidential race carried over to some extent into senate contests, producing a net gain of four seats, but in the house the gains went to the Democrats.

The new senate will have 28 Republican members, as against the present 24; 66 Democrats compared with 69 at present; one independent and one Progressive. Three of the new Republican seats were picked up from the Democrats; the fourth resulted from the reelection of Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota presently a Farmer-Laborite, who went over to the Republican ticket and won.

In the house, the Democrats picked up 9 seats for a total of 267. Republicans elected 162 members.

More Defense Needs To Britain

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had established a rule of thumb policy whereby Great Britain and Canada would be supplied 50 per cent of American defense items now coming off factory lines, including large bombers and other things needed both here and abroad.

At his first press conference since he was elected to a third term, Mr. Roosevelt also reported that American and Mexican army officers have carried on conversations regarding joint defense similar to those with other Latin American countries.

The chief executive said that heretofore, in regard to defense items needed both by the United States and Great Britain, this country was selling to Britain about 45 per cent of the production and retaining about 55 per cent here.

Making plain there would be some exceptions to his rule of thumb policy, the President said that, generally speaking, Britain would get half of needed munitions and other armaments and that this would apply to large bombing planes now coming off the line.

For a while, he said, the United States might need more than 50 per cent of some items and less in others.

No Study For Cabinet Changes

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he had given no consideration to any cabinet changes since his election to a third term.

Asked at a press conference about reports that his unsuccessful Republican opponent, Wendell L. Willkie, might go into the cabinet or some other important federal position, the president replied he had not considered anything along those lines one way or the other.

He then read a newspaper item saying that some cabinet changes were likely according to reports in New Deal circles.

He described the story as silly because, he said, the reports did not originate in New Deal circles and had been written in a newspaper office. He said the same thing applied to another report that Secretary of War Stimson would be replaced.

said there was no statement to be made at this time.

If there should be any action taken it cannot be done until after the official count of all ballots is made.

This official count, of both the regular and absentee ballots, began about noon today. It was to have started earlier, but Judge H. F. Fricke, of the county court, became ill after arriving at the court house, and it was necessary that he be taken home.

The count is being made by W. B. Rissler, county clerk, and County Judges J. K. Lacey, Jr., and Malcolm Scott, with Frank Wagner, a witness for the Republicans.

The absentee votes, counted on Thursday, were counted by the following: Democrats, Mrs. Walker Boulware and Henry Eschbacher, judges, Wm. Brown, clerk and Frank Armstrong, witness. Republicans, Carl Schrader and Archie Smith, judges, John T. Martin, clerk and Earl Crawford, witness.

Heavy Blow By British On The Krupp Works

explosions which added to the growing havic."

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—British bombers struck a heavy blow at the great German Krupp munitions works at Essen during the night and inflicted "severe damage," the air ministry reported today.

A concentrated attack was made on the German submarine base at Lorient, a communique said.

Other targets of the RAF raiders were listed as a synthetic oil tank at Cologne, a large part of which was reportedly set afire; blast furnaces at Dusseldorf and Oberhausen; docks on the Dartmund-ems canal; the inland port of Duisberg; shipping in Dunkerque harbor, and airdromes in Germany and German-occupied territory.

At Lorient, the air ministry news service reported, the RAF struck at a power station, naval workshops, barracks near a drydock, shipbuilding ways and railway approaches.

Tons of bombs started fires which were still visible for half an hour after the bombers had started home, the news service said.

Despite powerful ground defenses, large concentrations of searchlights and interception attempts by Messerschmitt pursuit ships, the news service said, the British raiding force returned without casualties.

Aircraft of the British coastal command also bombed airfields at Abbeville and Lannian, firing buildings at Abbeville and dropping explosives on the Lannian field as German planes were taking off, the news service reported.

Follow Up Night Blows

LONDON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—Invading air raiders attacked London and widely scattered areas of England today, following up a night of blows which British reports said apparently were aimed at Britain's industry, transport and civilian morale.

British planes engaged the invaders high over one London area where interlaced vapor trails in the sky told the story of dog fights.

Anti-aircraft batteries went into action shortly before the first day time alert souned in mid morning as the defenses sought to turn the raiders away from the city.

Five bombs plunged down on one southeastern town, striking a working class street and causing three casualties.

The "raiders passed" signal ended London's first day raid about noon.

Raiders also were reported over the midlands during the morning and reports of last night's raiding disclosed that a large library, a children's hospital and a Catholic home for old people were among the places hit. Casualties were few at all three.

Fair weather prevailed in the Strait of Dover but a slight haze cut visibility.

One raider, swoping down on a London suburb, machine-gunned workers on their way to work.

Distant gunfire could be heard. Channel observers reported that strong forces of British and German planes maneuvered over the channel about noon, with the Germans apparently trying to draw the defense forces to one zone to let raiders through another. They said the Germans finally were turned back to the French coast, however.

Bombs were reported to have early this afternoon and raiders fallen in the industrial midlands were said to be in the vicinity of Liverpool at about the same time.

SBA To Have Minstrel Show

The members of Fidelity Council No. 53 Security Benefit Association, enjoyed a delicious 7 o'clock luncheon Thursday night prior to the regular business meeting. Through the winter these luncheons will be a regular feature the first Thursday night of each month.

Next Thursday night the social committee: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. James Settles—have arranged for a one act minstrel to be presented immediately following the business session. Those not members are requested to get guest cards. An orchestra dance will follow the minstrel.

Some Decline To The Stock Market

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—(AP)—The stock market suffered from a slight profit taking hangover today after yesterday's biggest rallying spree in more than a year.

The list had difficulty in negotiating moredate advances at the start and selling soon cropped up in volume. Blocks of 1,000 to 5,000 shares changed hands shortly after the opening as prices churned confusingly. The ticker tape, for a while, was as much as 3 minutes late. A definite downward trend then developed and, at the worst, declines ranged from fractions to 2 points or so. Dealings slowed and closing quotations were above the bottom in most cases.

Transfers for the full proceedings were around 1,700,000 with better than a third of this amount turned over in the first hour.

Traders, brokers said, seemed a bit less inflation-minded than on Thursday when they pushed leaders up for the best advances since the war boom of September, 1939, as the treasury announced a move to lift the statutory debt limit to between $60,000,000,000 and $65,000,000,000.

Funeral of Joseph S. Quinn

The funeral of Joseph S. Quinn, who died early Thursday morning, will be held at Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, the pastor, Rev. Father Andrew J. Brunswick, to officiate.

The following friends will serve as pallbearers: Burns McGinley, John Joe McGrath, Eldred Menefee, Hugo Sparn, Chester Barnes and Tom Hurley.

Mr. Quinn, a traveling representative for the Shelby Shoe company, Portsmouth, Ohio, was found dead in his berth on a Missouri Pacific train early Thursday morning, just before the train arrived in Kansas City. He had boarded the train in St. Louis the night before, asking the porter to call him at 6 o'clock the next morning, an hour before the train was due to arrive in Kansas City.

According to the report made by the train porter Mr. Quinn was feeling fine when he retired, joked about the number of blankets on the bed, and seemed to be in the best of spirits and health.

An autopsy was conducted in Kansas City and the cause of death given as coronary occlusion, or a blood clot at the large artery of the heart.

The body was taken from the McLaughlin chapel this afternoon to the Quinn home, 720 West Fifth street.

The Knights of Columbus, of which Mr. Quinn was a member, will meet at the home and recite the rosary at 8 o'clock tonight.

British Convoy Reported Sunk By Nazi Ships

Freighter Of The British 'Sinking" Off The Irish Coast

BERLIN, Nov. 8—(AP)—German surface warships operating on Britain's vital North Atlantic supply lane from Canada and the United States were reported today by the high command to have "destroyed completely" a British convoy consisting of 86,000 tons of shipping.

The communique did not amplify the announcement, but informed quarters said that the convoy was made up of from 10 to 20 commercial vessels and that all the tonnage destroyed was commercial.

The convoy was said to have been heavily guarded by British warships.

(SOS messages from two British merchant vessels three days ago indicated that attack took place about midway between Ireland and Newfoundland. They reported that one of Germany's Pocket battleships was shelling them.

(These 10,000 ton vessels, mounting 11-inch guns and capable of 26 knots, were designed under naval limitations to outgun any cruiser and outrun any battleship.

Freighter Sinking

Mackay radio picked up this message:

"Sinking slowly. No means of getting away. All lifeboats smashed. Two rafts still alongside. Help urgently requested. Casualties aboard. Latitude 55.7 north, 16.50 west."

ARMISTICE DAY AND SPIRITUAL PREPAREDNESS

"For freedom's battle, once begun,
Bequeathed by bleeding sire to son,
Though baffled oft, is ever won."
—Lord Byron

Standing on the threshold of our twenty-third Armistice Day, we realize, as never before, that a united citizenry can alone fulfill the destiny of American democracy.

This year Armistice Day takes on a broadened significance, brings to us a sense of deepened responsibility. Men of good will, thanks to their basic religious beliefs, find themselves uniting in defense of democratic principles.

They realize that these principles are the vital force that protects us in our civil and religious liberties. In their churches, synagogues and cathedrals they find the strength and inspiration which give to freedom its highest meaning.

Our American freedom needs defense not only in the realm of military might but in the kingdom of things spiritual. Men of every faith and sect are rallying this year to make Armistice Day a time of spiritual preparation. Thanks to their united efforts, the forces of pagan materialism will be rendered powerless to overthrow us.

Golden Rule Presents Deep Challenge To Entire World In Times Of Stress

Text: Luke 6:27-38

By William E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor of Advance

This lesson on the Golden Rule comes with a deep and tremendous challenge to us in the times in which we are living. To love our enemies, to bless them that curse us, and to turn the other cheek to him who smites the one, is a teaching that is not easy to follow in a world at war, and in a world in which our own country is threatened with a violence that now assails other lands and peoples.

It is obvious that there is some limit of practical common sense to this idealistic teaching. If one followed the injunction of the lesson, "Give to everyone that asketh thee," there would very soon be nothing to give.

The ultra-pacifist would say that we must follow these teachings literally, regardless of consequences to ourselves and regardless even of the sweeping away of our government and its free democratic institutions. It is a principle of martyrdom for individuals and governments.

Few follow an interpretation that leads to such an illogical, impractical and disastrous end. Nevertheless, to disregard this teaching and nullify it, making it of no account, is as false as to interpret it with complete literalness.

Our lesson is a lesson for Armistice day, and if we look back and observe what has followed in an dobserve what has followed in the years since then, we can perhaps understand more clearly something of the meaning of this lesson.

If, in the settlement of the first World War, there had been more love for one's enemies, if there had been greater magnanimity, if there had been a greater purpose, such as Lincoln expressed, to "bind up the common wounds with malice toward none"—how different the course of the world might have been!

The Treaty of Versailles, which has been so roundly condemned, was not such a bad treaty as treaties go. Its terms were very mild in comparison with what Germany is imposing on conquered countries and in comparison with what she is likely to impose if she should dominate the world. Yet, measured by the standard of the teaching of Jesus and the ideal of recovery of life and good relationships for all peoples, the Treaty of Versailles was subject to much condemnation.

How different our history here in the United States would have been, following the Civil War, if Lincoln had lived and if his counsels and attitude of magnanimity had been followed!

Instead, what the country saw was the spirit of the carpet-bagger and exploiter grasping for himself the fruits of victory, and thereby in very large measure turning the physical victory into something of a moral and social defeat.

Perhaps it is along this line that we can best interpret the lesson. People are not likely to be dissuaded by a lesson like this from defending their homes from attack, and from upholding and defending their country against the threat of violence, aggression and destruction.

Yet, the defense of our land depends not only upon firmness of resistance, but also on the spirit of that resistance. A nation that would be strong should not dissipate any of its strength in hatred.

Pageant And Banquet For Religious Council Tonight

The pageant, "Visions of America" at 8 p. m. tonight, and the annual banquet will culminate the county convention of the Pettis County Council of Religious Education Friday evening at the First Christian church.

Scenic and electrical effects are being installed that will add to the beauty of the events that will close a full day of programs which began at 9:15 a. m.,and continue throughout the day and evening. All who are interested are invited to attend any or all of the sessions. The pageant will be enacted with a large cast of talented players from Smithton and Sedalia. The story is a thrilling one, depicting the ideals and visions of great events leading to the establishing of our great American nation. The audience will see episodes of historic moment and through the visions of the past and glimpses of the future will be shown a better world of righteousness.

The early days of American history will portray Columbus discovering American, the Spirit of '76; The Declaration of Independence; with George Washington; the '49'ers and the Covered Wagon Days will be represented in a scene of the historic old covered wagon and the pioneers faring out to this middle west to establish new homes in a new country, and Abraham Lincoln and the Civil War days will all form interesting parts of the pageant, as will the World War period. The culmination of this colorful presentation of peace scenes will be fittingly closed with the advancement of the colors and the presentation of the only flag that is ever permitted to fly over the American stars and stripes, the Christian flag with its background of red and its cross of white. Beautiful music will accompany the pageant and Mrs. H. O. Foraker, chorister of the First Christian church will preside at the pipe organ and the large chorus of the hostess church combined with a chorus from Smithton will sing beautiful music.

There will be special musical numbers given by the following: Delbert Ratje, Mrs. Edwin J. Weiss, Mrs. Shelby Kahrs, Miss Esther Lewis, Bill Jackson, David Nonkin, Edward Ringen, and Cynthia Lou Mynatt.

This beautiful pageant will be given through the department of daramtics and music of the council of which Mrs. Frank S. Leach is director. Mrs. H. L. Hill, the president of the council has written this pageant, assisted by the following: Mesdames Charles Kahrs, Dolly Griffin, Walter May, Harry Demand, Charles Lamm, J. J. Lamm, George Griffin, Jr., John Daniels, Shelby Kahrs, O. R. Demand, Edwin Weiss, Miss Laura Kruse and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Rissler all of Smithton. The public is cordially invited and there will be no admission charges.

The Banquet

At 6:15 the annual banquet will be held, preceding the pageant. This promises to be a pleasant occasion. There will be a patriotic note in the table decorations with flowers to add beauty. The theme of the banquet will be "Let There Be Light" and a miniature lighthouse will be erected and electrically lighted, in keeping with the thought of the Christian light shedding cheer and brightness to the wayfarers of this world. The programs will be decorated with light-house cut outs, on yellow background. The diffreent parts of the council work, childhood, youth and the adult divisions will be presented and Bonnie Herrick, and Betty Hausam, in white formals, will light the tall cathedral candles, typifying the light of the Pettis County Council of Religious Education. Music will be enjoyed on this program especially twenty-seven members of the vested boy's choir of the Mark Twain school. Mrs. Frank S. Leach will preside.

New York Jungle

By Wray Wade Severn

Copyright 1940, NEA Service, Inc.

YESTERDAY: Plowman outlines his case against Barkes. He believes the chauffeur worked with a confederate, planned to steal Mrs. Langdon's pearls, as well as the money. Sidney goes to Pat, asks if Barkes could have known of the strand. Pat says it is impossible, she has not worn them in New York. When Braitwood asks if she called Gundrum for protection, Pat admits it, but denies Gundrum shot Adam. "I know it," Sidney answers.

* * *

THE KILLER CONFESSES

CHAPTER XXIII

FEELING as if he had aged 10 years, Sidney Braitwood slowly climbed the stairs, went to Hugh Langdon's bedroom. The big engineer was in a chair, before the window, a stubby pipe clenched in his teeth.

"Sit down, Sid," he said. "What's keeping you up so late?"

Sidney sank into a chair. With an unsteady hand he lighted a cigaret and for a few moments the two men puffed in silence.

"God knows why the cards were dealt as they were last night," Hugh said finally. "We played our hands according to the dictates of the moment and old Adam lost."

"A fellow who knows both the hands and the players can understand all the plays, Hugh," Sidney replied. "When a man is faced with a tragic alternative he—"

"He does what he believes right and he does it at once—" Hugh said grimly.

"I know that, Hugh. Just now I picked up a bit from Togi. Before dinner Nella told me what she had seen—an instant before the shot was fired."

Hugh Langdon's lips hardened over the stem in his mouth.

"I'm sorry Nella saw—what she saw. It was a rather terrible sight. It will be an indelible memory for her, Sid."

* * *

BRAITWOOD nodded. "Here's the story, Hugh. Correct me where I'm wrong," he said.

"Pat had threatened to have Adam declared incompetent. His mind had really begun to break, though he had lucid days. He had the coffee table placed under a shelf on which his porcupine stood. He sent the electric percolator away so that the old-fashioned one would be used. It burned a flame in front of his wife.

"Then he counted the buttons on his vest so that he would know just how high to hold his elbow when taking aim in the dark—except for the target of that tiny flame, he had planned darkness. In the afternoon he had practiced a shot using the Lilliput, because it made little noise."

Hugh Langdon got up and poured himself a drink of brandy.

"Go on, Sid."

"Adam had even provided an alibi by locking the door so that it would appear to have been locked from the outside by a thief. And he had also broken a pane of glass in direct line with the block of the new lioness and the coffee table. In that way it could have been made to appear that a shot had been fired through the broken window at Pat, instead of from the lioness."

"He was not himself. He was mad—but cunning!" Hugh muttered.

"Adam intended to tell the police that Pat had looked up at the open window and had recognized the thief, that the thief had fired at her. Usually the lamp in the driveway is lighted just back of that window so that a person could be seen. Last night, for some reason, it was not lighted, but Adam did not realize it.

"Using a penknife, he short-circuited the lights in the smaller room, and he had switched off the lights in the larger room before he sent Togi for bulbs. When it was dark he mounted the block, took aim and even had pulled the trigger of his revolver. So much Nella saw."

"Did Gundrum tell you this, Sid, or did you reason it out for yourself?"

"Gundrum! Did he see the shooting, Hugh?"

"He saw everything. He kept silent for obvious reasons. He told Pat what he saw and persuaded her not to tell what she knew. I hope you agree?"

"Then only two of us were really in the dark?" Sidney mused.

"Three. You forget Togi."

"Thank God enough of them saw what happened. We shall need their testimony, old man. Henry Barkes has been arrested for the murder."

* * *

THE big engineer's face withered at the announcement. For an instant he remained silent and then he said slowly, "Arrested that limp chauffeur? Does Plowman really believe him guilty, or is he trying to force our hands?"

"I can't say. But can we afford to take that chance?"

"In common decency, no, Sid. How did you know who shot—in Pat's defense?"

"Given similar circumstances any one of us might have done it, Hugh, but there is only one who had the instant aim and courage to act. And only one man tall enough to hide the Lilliput in the upraised hand of the ape without standing on the block. There were no marks on that block."

"Yes, I did it," Hugh said calmly.

"There was only one load in the gun I'd taken from the rack, so I slipped the Lilliput into my pocket. It would have shown Adam's own fingerprints as well as mine had I not wiped it off. Unless, of course, he'd cleaned it after using it that afternoon. I'd used the one bullet shooting the lock, so I'd slipped the gun into my pocket and had hold of the Lilliput.

"Then came the terrific lightning when the women say they covered their eyes. Nella, apparently, did not cover hers. I turned to tell Adam to remain with the women.

"In the flash I saw him standing on the block. He had raised his gun and aimed at his wife. He looked exactly as Nella described him."

Hugh paused a moment before continuing. "I knew then that he'd lost all reason and I shouted, 'Adam!' He didn't even hear me. Instead he drew the hammer of his gun.

"It happened so quickly I could not reach him myself, but my bullet could. I aimed at his right hand, but he must have turned slightly and leaned forward. The bullet caught him in the heart."

"You shot in defense of a life, Hugh."

"I know that, Sid. But think of it—old Adam!"

"Not the Adam we knew, Hugh. A distorted mind in his body."

"Thanks," Hugh breathed. "I thought everyone in the room would shout that I'd killed him. No one did. Then I realized that in the confusion and darkness no one had seen me.

"I actually stepped back, struck a match and looked into his face. I saw then that aid for the wound was useless, so I decided for all our sakes we had better assume that a thief had done the murder. It would make bad telling that if I had not acted instantly my cousin would have shot his wife. A premeditated murder."

"I wish it could have been left that way, but it would always have dogged you, old man. As it is, we'll do everything we can for you."

Hugh got heavily to his feet. "The sooner I give myself up, the better it will be for Henry Barkes," he said sadly.

3. Is it better for a hostess to provide small or large ashtrays at a party?
4. When drawing your chair up to a dining table, should you do so with one long pull, or a series of little jerks?
5. If a girl smokes a different brand of cigarets than her escort, should she carry her own or expect him to carry her brand as well as his own?

What would you do if—

You are a man getting off a bus or street car and there is a woman with you—

(a) Get off first and then take her arm and help her down the steps?

(b) Let her go before you?

Answers

1. No. It gives a person almost an apologetic look.
2. No. The guest knows whether or not he wants more.
3. Large ones that don't have to be emptied continually.

Roosevelt Off On Election Guess

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt disclosed today he had again been way off in his guess on the election's outcome.

He told his press conference he had forecast 340 electoral votes for himself. The way the returns stood today, he had won 449 and Wendell L. Willkie 82.

The 340 forecast was exactly the same he had made on August 2 before the 1936 election. That year he won 523 electoral votes to Alf M. Landon's 8.

He said he had not made a forecast on the house of representatives, but added that he never was as worried about that as some other people.

On the basis of his 340 vote forecast, Mr. Roosevelt laughed and asserted he had lost several pool wagers at Hyde Park on how various sections of the country would go.

Asked what states had surprised him, the President replied about 110 votes worth. He did not identify the states.

Told by a reporter that Latin American countries had interpreted his reelection as strengthening the good neighbor policy, he replied that was nice and, he thought, was probably correct.

In response to question, Mr. Roosevelt said he had not heard from Hitler or Mussolini on the election.

The President said his guess of 340 electoral votes was made around August 1, around the same time of the year that he had made his fourth and final forecast of the 1936 election. He added he had seen no reason to change his 1940 prediction between August 1 and election day.

Mr. Roosevelt's attention was called to a campaign speech statement that there would be another president after four years. He was asked whether this still held good and meant he would not be a candidate in 1944 and in reply the President said he thought his first statement was perfectly clear. He advised his questioner to go back to grade school and learn English. He asked his inquirer to read what he had said before.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8—(AP)—Even the Finnish minister turned out last night for the annual reception at the Russian embassy.

He and representatives of all the belligerent European powers were among the 900 greeted by Ambassador Constantine Oumansky and Madame Oumansky.

The reception symbolized a changed attitude toward Russia and was in marked contrast to the one last year, when many in the diplomatic set stayed away because of strained Russo-Finnish relations.

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state, headed the United States representation last night. Others included Ambassador Colonna of Italy, who left early; the Turkish ambassador; T. V. Soong, president of the Bank of China; and Mrs. George C. Marshall, wife of the U. S. army chief of staff.

Britain, Japan and Germany, whose ambassadors are absent, were represented by their next ranking diplomats.

Huge Bridge Is To Be Rebuilt

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 8—(AP)—The elements won in the battle for the $6,400,000 Narrows bridge, and the floor of the world's third longest suspension span lay in Puget Sound today. But man and his science will try again.

Agitated and twisted by a wind of gale proportions, the colossal structure, which only four months ago was dedicated as a monument to engineering science, crumbled, then collapsed with a mighty roar yesterday into the white-crested waves of the sound.

There was no loss of human life. Two men—an engineer and a newspaperman—who were on the bridge when it began to twist violently, narrowly escaped as sections of the floor began hurtling into the waters 200 feet below.

A. F. Andrew, chief engineer of the Washington toll bridge authority, who announced that plans for rebuilding the bridge would be undertaken, immediately, attributed the tragedy to "substitution of plat girders eight feet in depth for a truss design which had previously been planned." He explained:

"The solid metal expanses acted like a sail, catching the wind and swinging the bridge. We had planned to bore holes to allow the wind to pass through, but had not had time."

It was a race with the elements that the engineers lost. From its opening, the bridge had shown menacing signs of sway whenever a high wind whipped up. There was an up-and-down swing that gave motorists a sea-sick feeling.

The state carried insurance of $5,200,000 on the bridge, plus insurance against loss of tolls.

Morgenthau Is For A Hoist In Limit Of Debt

To Ask Congress To Increase It To 60 Or 65 Billion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau said today that the treasury would seek further increases in taxes to help meet defense costs while asking a boost of fifteen or twenty billion dollars in the national debt limit to take care of possible deficits up to June 30, 1942.

"We'll need more taxes," Morgenthau told his press conference after explaining that with the present debt limit the treasury found itself "in a rather difficult position."

The limit now is $45,000,000,000 with an additional $4,000,000,000 authorized for national defense spending. The treasury chief said that he might ask congress immediately to remove present restrictions on the defense borrowing authority, and that as soon as possible after the first of the year he would ask for a general increase in the limit.

Explaining that the possible raising of the borrowing authority to $60,000,000,000 or $65,000,000,000 was meant to care for needs only through the 1942 fiscal year, Morgenthau declined to say what debt limit might be needed by the end of the administration's next four year term in January, 1945. Nor did he give further details about plans to raise new taxes.

Asked whether it was conceivable that government expenditures could be put on a "pay as you go" basis shortly, Morgenthau replied: "I don't think it's possible."

Wants Restrictions Lifted

The secretary said that with the old $45,000,000,000 debt limit "practically reached" the treasury found itself "in a rather difficult position."

He added that it would be "very helpful" if congress lifted immediately the restrictions which it put on the $4,000,000,000 additional debt authorization before January 1.

As for the general increase in the debt limit, Morgenthau said that he and Daniel W. Bell, treasury undersecretary, would go before congress as soon as possible after the new session begins.

Morgenthau said that the next congress would be asked to make all future issues of state and local securities subject to taxes. He said that in studying the problem he had learned that about $2,000,000,000 of tax-exempt state and local securities would mature next year.

"I sincerely hope that congress will make all future issues of nonfederal securities taxable," the treasury chief said. "The time has come when we need money for national defense. We need an increase in the draft limit and meanwhile we want to increase the taxes."

Morgenthau said that the treasury would be the first to feel the impact of rising costs resulting from greater economic activity, but that "I do not fear inflation with Mr. Roosevelt as president."

The "necessary steps" will be taken, Morgenthau said, if prices get out of line. He said that he proposed to "shout it from the housetops" if some prices went wrong.

Morgenthau said that he would leave today for a several weeks' tour of Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Jamaica because he was "very much interested in looking at defense work."

"After all," he said, "we've got to raise the money, and I'd like to see how it's being spent."

Senator Byrd (D-Va.), a leader in the so-called Senate economy bloc, announced immediate opposition to any proposed increase of $15,000,000,000 or $20,000,000,000 in the national debt limit.

"I favor an increase of not more than $5,000,000,000 to take care of national defense," Byrd told reporters. "Congress should not increase the debt by more than this amount. It is necessary for Congress to curb larger increases."

The senator approved Morgenthau's proposal to eliminate future issues of tax exempt government securities and urged an increase in all federal taxes.

DETROIT, Nov. 7—(AP)—Revised unofficial presidential vote totals, now virtually complete, tipped Michigan back into the Republican column this afternoon. With three of the state's 3,632 precincts missing, the vote was: Willkie 1,028,087; Roosevelt 1,025,774.

Joseph Quinn Dies In Sleep On Pullman

Funeral Services For Sedalian Will Be Held Saturday

Joseph Stanislaus Quinn, aged 52, 720 West Fifth street, a member of one of Sedalia's prominent families, died suddenly Wednesday night, or early yesterday morning in his sleep in a berth on Missouri Pacific train No. 9, between St. Louis and Kansas City.

His death was discovered early in the morning by a train porter who went to awaken Mr. Quinn a short time before the train arrived in Kansas City. It was due there at 7 o'clock, and that city was Mr. Quinn's destination.

Mr. Quinn, a traveling representative of the Selby Shoe Company, left St. Louis Wednesday night with Tom Flautt, a friend and representative of the same company. The train leaves St. Louis at 11:59 p. m., but coaches are in the yards and many passengers get on early and retire before the train pulls out. That apparently is what Mr. Quinn did because word received by the family here today was that Mr. Quinn told Mr. Flautt about ten o'clock he was tired and believed he would retire. He went to his berth, leaving word with the train porter to call him early. The train passed through Sedalia about 4:35 o'clock yesterday morning.

Shocked By News

When the porter learned that Mr. Quinn had passed away company officials notified a nephew, James P. Quinn, Jr., in Kansas City, who in turn called his father and a brother of the deaceased, James P. Quinn, of Sedalia.

Shocked by the news, because Mr. Quinn had not complained of being ill, and was believed in the best of health, Mrs. Joseph Quinn and her three children, and James P. Quinn and sisters, Miss Mary Quinn and Miss Johanna Quinn, the latter here on a visit from New York, drove to Kansas City immediately.

Frank Quinn, a brother, also a traveling representative for a shoe company, was located in Jefferson City. He drove at once to Sedalia. Cornelius Quinn, another brother, was located in St. Paul, Minn. He took a plane to Kansas City, and was met there last night by relatives.

Well Known Salesman

Mr. Quinn was born and reared in Sedalia, a son of the late Cornelius and Bridget McGinley Quinn. He attended the Sacred Heart grade school and Sedalia high school. He was for a time with the Quinn Brothers Shoe Co., here, of which firm he is a member, but since 1916 has been with the Selby Company. He was a valued employe representative of that company, being unusually successful as a salesman.

Mr. Quinn was interested in the city's affairs, affable and popular with friends and acquaintances, a devout member of Sacred Heart church, and a man whose love and devotion to his family has been outstanding.

Mr. Quinn leaves his wife, formerly Miss Gertrude Jansen, to whom he was married in Cincinnati, Ohio, and three children, Patricia, Joseph, Jr., and Janet of the home. Another daughter, Mary Rose, died several years ago. He also leaves three brothers, James P. Quinn and Cornelius Quinn, and Frank Quinn, Keokuk, Iowa, and two sisters, Miss Mary Quinn, Sedalia, and Miss Johanna Quinn, of New York City. Three brothers are deceased, Mike Quinn, who died in 1913, John Quinn, whose death occurred in 1929 and Monsignor William Quinn, who died two years ago.

Ickes Offers Resignation To The President

Would Give Free Hand If Change Should Be Desired

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Secretary Ickes submitted his resignation to President Roosevelt today offering to step out of his interior department post when and if the White House chooses to accept it.

Ickes told his press conference he rejoiced in Mr. Roosevelt's re-election and in offering to resign acted only to give the president a free hand should he desire to make a cabinet change.

Ickes acted similarly after the president's reelection in 1936, as is customary, but not all his colleagues in the cabinet followed suit.

He said he believed that all presidential appointive officials should do as he had.

"I for one," Ickes said, "believe the president should be left free at the beginning of a new administration to reshuffle, recreate or do anything he pleases with his official family, especially in view of the mighty task ahead of him."

Three Of Original Cabinet

Only three of the president's original 1933 cabinet remain—Ickes and Secretaries Hull and Perkins.

There seemed little likelihood that Hull would leave his post at the state department. In circumstances similar to Hull's, with regard to holding jobs of especially current importance, are Secretaries Stimson and Knox.

Secretary Morgenthau gave reporters today a possible indication he expected to remain at the treasury when he spoke of plans he had for asking the next congress for another increase in the national debt limit.

Secretary of Commerce Jones, it was said, probably would not have gone to the trouble of waiting for congress to enact special legislation for him to hold that job as well as the federal loan administrator's, had he regarded the secretaryship as a post of brief tenure.

There was conjecture about Secretary Perkins, whose regime at the labor department coincided with the AFL-CIO split, and there was nothing definite about the future for agriculture Secretary Wickard, Postmaster General Walker and Attorney General Jackson.

GOP Judges Refuse To Sign Absentee Ballots Affidavit

Menefee, Democratic Assessor Candidate, Apparently Has Lead Over His Opponent

The official counting of the absentee votes in Pettis county was completed about 9 o'clock last night, but Democrat and Republican judges ended in a heated argument over the signing of the official record.

For more than four hours the judges argued ending with the Democratic judges and the county clerk signing the official tally sheet and the Republican officials refusing but attaching to the report to the clerk, William Rissler, their reasons for not signing.

According to the Republicans several ballots were counted which they alleged were not in proper order, and that challengers who made their appearance were refused admittance to the county room, while on the other hand the Democratic judges declared the Republican officials had been receiving "notes" from Republican County Committee officers "to check this ballot and check that ballot."

John Menefee, county assessor, Democrat, who ran for re-election and who trailed at the unofficial count according to the report of County Clerk Rissler, by 77 votes, picked up in the absentee count and is elected by a majority of twelve votes.

Menefee's unofficial tabulation was 8,569 votes and Lawson Clingan, Republican was 8,646 with the absentee count being, Menefee, 150, and Clingan 61.

Ed Goetz, Republican County Committee chairman, made his appearance in the room during the counting, according to Frank Armstrong and William Brown, Democratic officials, and when his actions became such that they felt he was improperly remaining in the room they ordered him to "get out," it was said.

Armstrong and Brown both declared they would have ordered anyone else out of the counting room had they appeared, in accordance with the election laws which demand that no one other than election officials be permitted to enter that room.

The Democratic officials also charged that a "messenger" had been sent to the room by Republican officials for the purpose of carrying "notes" to the Republican election officials.

Both Chairman Sam Harlan of the Democratic Committee and Mr. Goetz were present in the outer office of Clerk Rissler during the late procedure and were kept busy checking the election book for rulings on the affair of the officials.

According to Chairman Harlan the next procedure probably would be to take the matter before the Circuit court.

The general trend of the absentee vote was the Democrats leading 143 to the Republicans 68, with the exception of the Menefee-Clingan vote.

The absentee vote of John J. O'Brien, Democrat, for sheriff was 139 while C. R. Bothwell, Republican was 73.

The Republican judges statement, subscribed and sworn to by W. B. Rissler, Pettis county clerk was as follows:

We, the undersigned being duly appointed canvassers of the returns of the general election held on the 5th Day of November 1940 of Pettis County Missouri, for the purpose of opening and counting the ballots of absent voters at the general election held on the 5th day of November 1940 state as our reason for failure to sign the certificate of canvasses of absentee vote, register books, and other books, blanks and forms required and the election returns that the other canvassers or judges refused to permit persons who were electors to appear for the purpose of challenging the qualifications of voters or persons who had applied for and voted absentee ballots, which were being canvassed, and because information has been given the undersigned that the votes of disqualified persons are included in the count as tallied.

Changes Loom In Important Foreign Posts

President And Secretary Hull Begins Re-Check

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7—(AP)—Presaging action to reinforce American foreign policies, President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull today began re-checking the nation's diplomatic representation in European capitals.

As a result of the war and the consequently altered relationships with belligerent nations, there has been a considerable "turnover" among American ambassadors and ministers in Europe, necessitating a reshuffling soon and probably several changes in important posts.

Joseph P. Kennedy, ambassador to Great Britain, whose return to the United States produced reports he intended to resign, conferred with Secretary Hull yesterday but declined to discuss the future except to tell newspapermen he had "no plans."

The President and Secretary Hull stated several times, prior to the election, that they had no information that Kennedy would not return to London. Informed officials said today there had been no change in this situation and it was expected Kennedy would return to his post after a vacation from London's around-the-clock bombings.

Kennedy, however, has been mentioned as a possible chairman of the national defense committee, a position not yet filled by President Roosevelt.

The United States is now represented at the capitals of four major western European nations by charges d'affaires instead of the usual ambassadors.

Herschel V. Johnson, a career diplomat, is in charge of the London Embassy during Kennedy's absence.

Leland B. Morris, another foreign service career man, is charge d'affaires in Berlin, where the United States has not been represented by an ambassador since recall two years ago of Hugh Wilson, now on special duty in the state department. There has been no indication an ambassador to Germany would be named in the near immediate future.

Edward L. Reed, counselor, is charge d'affaires in Rome during the absence of William Phillips, the ambassador, now on leave in Massachusetts. Phillips' health is reported so poor that he probably will not return to Rome. No one, however, has been mentioned as a possible successor.

Diplomatic observers here also do not expect William C. Bullitt, ambassador to France, to return to Vichy. H. Freeman Matthews, secretary of the Embassy, is acting charge d'affaires.

Since the United States still recognizes Poland, it was expected that Anthony Drexel Biddle, now on leave, will rejoin the Polish Government now established in London as American ambassador.

Envoys to several countries, occupied by Germany or Soviet Russia, or wiped off the map by the conquering nations, also are here awaiting decision by the President and Secretary Hull as to the future status of the once-independent countries.

Among them are John Cudahy, ambassador to Belgium; John G. Wiley, minister to the Baltic countries; George A. Gordon, minister to the Netherlands; Ray Atherton, minister to Denmark, and Mrs. Daisy Harriman, minister to Norway, and the only woman in the American foreign service.

Big Push From Italy On Greece Now On Way

Defense Is Made Ready To Meet Advancing Forces

ATHENS, Nov. 7—(AP)—Italy's big push against Greece, supreme test in this little nation's fight for life, apparently has started.

The Greek high command acknowledged that its evzones, or mountain fighters, had been forced into a "slight" retreat along the Ionian sea, on the Epirus or Kalamas front, in northwestern Greece.

(After eight days of marking time on the banks of the Kalamas river, constantly harassed by Greek artillery, planes and roving patrols, the Italian high command reported today that the river had been crossed and left behind).

Italian forces were reliably reported to have established contact with the main Greek defense lines on the Epirus front. The main body of the Greek army was said to be firmly entrenched in well fortified positions, however, and neutral military experts said these would be difficult to approach.

Change Types of Planes

Meanwhile it was disclosed that Italy had changed the types of bombing and fighting planes used in the campaign. Fast monoplanes, both for bombing and machine-gun fighting, appeared for the first time yesterday in the place of second-line biplanes first used.

The change was believed by neutral air experts to have been brought about by the heavy losses inflicted on the Fascists by the Greek air force and the increasing air aid supplied by the British.

(Reports reaching London by radio hinted that the big Italian drive, anticipated by the Greeks and their British allies, had begun at last).

Heavy artillery and aerial bombardment yesterday preceded the Italian Kalamas thrust. The extent of the Greek withdrawal was not disclosed.

The Kalamas river, roughly paralleling the border from five to 15 miles inside Greece, is one of the first natural barriers to the Italian coastal drive from Albania.

Greece turned out her own small air force, now bolstered by British planes, to assail the advancing Italian columns.

Conceivably a successful Italian thrust along the coast, threatening Greek lines of supply deeper inland, might force abandonment of the Greeks' own salient now threatening Koritza, Italian invasion base 10 miles inside Albania.

Conversely, capture of Koritza, now dominated by Greek mountain artillery, 100 miles northeast of the Kalamas front, conceivably might slow down or even halt the Italian coastal drive through a rearguard threat.

(Reports reaching Belgrade, Yugoslavia, from the Koritza sector indicated the possibility of a decisive battle in the next few days. Both sides were said to be bringing up reinforcements).

Huge Bridge Breaks In Half

Parts Of Span At Tacoma Plunge Into Pudget Sound

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 7—(AP)—The Tacoma Narrows bridge broke in half today.

Parts of the huge span went cascading 190 feet into Pudget sound.

No one was on the $6,400,000 suspension structure when it fell.

Still on the structure, however, were an automobile and a logging truck.

The huge suspension bridge, with the third longest span in the world, began to crack up shortly after it started to sway sideways in a heavy wind.

A 50-foot section of the roadway fell first.

Then, with its cables twisting wildly, it began to disintegrate.

Last person on the structure was Leonard Coatsworth, a Tacoma News-Tribune reporter, who abandoned his car and crawled 500 yards on his hands and knees to shore while the bridge bed tipped to as much as a 45-degree angle.

All traffic across the span was stopped.

No one was injured according to preliminary reports.

The bridge was nicknamed "Galloping Gertie" shortly after it opened because of a strange weaving motion it developed.

Completed last July, the bridge was built under extraordinary conditions created by an eight-mile-an-hour tide. Its piers were sunk to a depth of 247 feet.

The span crossed an arm of Puget Sound near here and was built to shorten the distance between the mainland and the Olympic peninsula.

Donnell's Victory For Governorship Is An Amazing Upset

Red Cross Roll Call Nov. 11-30

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Gov. Lloyd C. Stark today proclaimed Missouri's annual Red Cross roll call as the period from November 11 to November 30.

"The American Red Cross fills a most important niche in our national defense program," the governor said in his proclamation.

"It now faces a demand for expansion due to the fact that the Red Cross nursing service is the designated nursing reserve of the United States army * * *.

"There must be no neglect of this organization's domestic service in disaster, relief, public health and accident prevention all of which have their bearing on our national welfare."

Stark asked all Missourians "to support this great humanitarian effort in every way."

Burke To Lead Over Ratner

TOPEKA, Kas., Nov. 7—(AP)—W. H. Burke, Little River democratic stockman, is ahead of republican Gov. Payne Ratner in Kansas' closest gubernatorial race of recent years but by a lead so narrow the official count and tabulation of absentee ballots will be necessary to determine the winner.

Complete unofficial returns from all the state's 2734 precincts gave Burke 418,797, Ratner 417,256.

The Parsons incumbent led from the reporting of first fragmentary returns Tuesday and throughout the first night of counting but finally slipped behind as Wichita districts were heard from.

If official returns land Burke in the Governor's office he apparently will be a lone Democrat in an otherwise Republican stronghold.

The nearly complete unofficial returns which gave the state's nine electoral college votes to Wendell Willkie for President also: Returned to office ten minor Republican state officials. Re-elected all congressmen—six Republicans and one Democrat. Apparently gave Republicans control of both legislative houses.

Wesner Sends His Congratulations

Fred F. Wesner, of Sedalia, on Wednesday sent a message of congratulations to George Miller of Hermitage, Republican who defeated him in the race for state senator.

Mr. Wesner, in an interview, expressed his appreciation to all voters in the district who supported him.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesner left Tuesday evening for Golden City, to attend a field trial, and will go from there to Pittsburgh, Kas., to visit Mrs. Wesner's parents.

Thanksgiving In 16 States Nov. 28

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Two-thirds of the nation will observe Thanksgiving day on November 21, the day to be designated by President Roosevelt.

Governors of these 16 states, however, have announced adherence to the traditional date—November 28, the last Thursday of the month: Arkansas, Florida, Connecticut, Kansas, Iowa, Nevada, Massachusetts, Oklahoma, North Carolina, New Hampshire, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Vermont and Maine.

Dies On Train

Joseph S. Quinn, Sedalian, traveling representative for a shoe company, was found dead in a berth on Missouri Pacific train, No. 9 shortly before it arrived in Kansas City at 7 o'clock this morning. He had boarded the train in St. Louis last night, planning to go to Kansas City and return to Sedalia Friday evening.

Late Returns In Count Put Him 4,155 In Lead

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 7—(AP)—A verified unofficial tabulation today of one of the closest races in Missouri's political history showed Forrest C. Donnell won the governorship by 4,155 votes.

A recheck of every precinct in the state gave:

Lawrence E. McDaniel 901,077, Donnell 905,232.

The figure did not include the absentee vote which election officials will begin counting tomorrow. In most past instances the absentees have continued the trend of the regular voting.

Nearly 8,000 absentees were cast in the general election four years ago. If a total similar to that number came into this year's voting McDaniel would have to carry them three-to-one in order to win.

The Republican lawyer's victory magnified into phenomenon in the face of President Roosevelt's swinging the state by about 89,000 votes—a trend that carried the rest of the Democratic state ticket into office.

The variance between the vote of Roosevelt and Donnell indicated wide spread splitting of the ballot. Democrats won every other major state office.

Official canvass and counting of the absentees starts tomorrow. Often it is tardy. In this year's primary election, there were about 10,000 absentee ballots, four years ago 8,000.

Senator Bennett Champ Clark was most optimistic for McDaniel. "I am informed," he said, "there are about 12,000 absentee ballots. About 60 per cent of these are railroad workers, of whom 99 per cent can be expected to support McDaniel. I believe a count of the absentees will disclose he has been elected."

Meantime, confident of victory, Donnell thanked the voters, promised them again in a statement that "no political machine will dominate the affairs of your and my state government during my administration."

Donnell's victory repeats political history. In 1908, Herbert S. Hadley was elected governor, the only Republican chosen on the state ticket.

St. Louis and Kansas City went for McDaniel, former St. Louis excise commissioner, giving him an advantage of about 52,500 votes. However, the slowly tabulated country vote matched this and then some, feeding Donnell a 56,500 advantage, which spelled his victory.

Senator Harry S. Truman, who won renomination after shading Gov. Lloyd C. Stark in a dogged primary race that paralleled the Donnell-McDaniel scrap, defeated his caustic critic, Republican Manvel H. (Cap) Davis, by about 42,000.

The two big cities gave the New Deal incumbent his plurality. Davis, one time state senator, who in his active campaign tagged Truman the "Pendergast senator," received a 30,000 vote advantage outstate.

Wilson Bell, Potosi editor, tyro on the Democratic slate, captured the one term job as state treasurer; Judge George Robb Ellison won a second term in the supreme court; and State Auditor Forrest Smith, Lt. Gov. Frank G. Harris, Attorney General Roy McKittrick and Secretary of State Dwight Brown all were elected to third terms.

Significant was the election of two new Republican congressmen, assuring Dewey Short of the Seventh district the first GOP companions from Missouri he's ever had in the house. Short was re-elected easily.

Newcomers are Phil A. Bennett, one time lieutenant governor, who turned out incumbent Congressman Reuben T. Wood in the Sixth district and Walter Ploeser, young St. Louis insurance man, who unseated C. Arthur Anderson in the Twelfth district.

One new Democrat and nine veterans will return to Washington. The first termer will be John B. Sullivan, St. Louis attorney, who moves into the Eleventh district seat. Incumbent Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., chose to run for circuit attorney of St. Louis and was elected.

The nine Democrats re-elected are: Milton A. Romjue, First district; William L. Nelson, Second; Richard M. Duncan, Third; C. Jasper Bell, Fourth; Joseph B. Shannon, Fifth; Clyde Williams, Eighth; Clarence Cannon, Ninth; Orville Zimmerman, Tenth and John J. Cochran, Thirteenth.

Another Republican advance was in the state senate, where the minority party—three members in the last session—picked up three Democratic seats and hiked their total to six. The Republicans appeared to have made substantial gains, too, in the Missouri house of representatives.

Donnell Listens To Gov ernor's Race Returns .

Forrest C. Donnell, Republican candidate for governor, listens to radio reports at his home in St. Louis, which at the time did not favor him. Later he went into a lead, holding 4,155 more votes in the tabulations than McDaniel. The absentee vote is not likely to overcome this advantage. With the candidate (left) are his wife, his daughter (seated in the foreground) his son, John L. Donnell, and his son-in-law, Boyd Rogers (right).

Fred Wesner, Good Democrat

It is always refreshing when neighbors pay you or your family a compliment. Such is the case when the Daily Democrat-News, of Marshall, generously says nice things about one of Pettis county's loyal Democratic citizens. Editorially, this is an opinion the Saline county newspaper expresses:

"Fred Wesner of Sedalia, Democratic nominee for state senator, is a good Democrat. Mr. Wesner has always been regular in his party affiliation and always active in party work.

He has freely given his speaking talent to the Democratic cause even when not a candidate for office and in many other ways has demonstrated his party loyalty.

"Democrats of Saline county should line up solidly behind Mr. Wesner, for he needs a strong vote in this county to overcome the heavy Republican vote in the two south counties of the district. Democrats of Saline county won't lose anything in patronage, either individually or collectively, by having Mr. Wesner in the senate. They won't get anything in that line if his Republican opponent wins. The party will not suffer, either, by having Mr. Wesner as its state senator, for he will be regular and loyal in his support.

"Mr. Wesner is experienced in political life. Through that experience he has learned how to get things done and therefore, not only Saline county, but the other counties of the district, too, can expect that he will be of good service to the district and be able to accomplish more for the district than one who is new to political life.

"Let all good Democrats forget the primary. It is true, of course, that he defeated a Saline county man for the nomination but we all believe in majority rule and the majority of the Democrats in the district favored the Sedalia lawyer. W. Y. Lockridge, who was Saline's candidate for state senator, has shown his loyalty to the Democratic party by making two political addresses in Pettis county. All of us Saline Democrats should have the same generous spirit of sportsmanship that Mr. Lockridge has demonstrated.

"Let all of us Democrats remember that a Democratic senator will help us and a Republican senator won't."

A Royal Zombie

All will remember that shuddery West Indian legend of the zombie—the dead charmed into a burden-bearing semblance of life without the consciousness that is life's essence.

We thought of it with a shudder the other day when a short dispatch described silent "King" Leopold of the Belgians, walking through the grounds of the Laeken Palace in Brussels, head bowed, like a man in a trance.

Here he lives, this man who once headed a proud and independent people, conferring daily with German generals and Belgian "officials"—a king without power, a sovereign without sovereignty, a man without a country. Not yet do we know enough for a historical verdict on his surrender—all we can do is mutely watch him pace the grounds of his palace prison, a royal zombie. In a Europe so overflowing with tragedy, he is only an episode, a fragment, a walking sigh.

The New Racial 'Who's Who'

It isn't funny, of course. Nothing like this can be really funny in a Europe deluged in blood, tears and bitterness. But in ordinary times it would be funny. The Spanish newspaper Arriba, celebrating the visit of Himmler, head of the German secret police, rejoiced in the fact that the Spaniards are not really a Latin people, as the world has so long supposed. They are really, Arriba discovers, the descendants of the Visigoths, an ancient Teuton people, and as such almost fit to receive and associate on equal terms with the Aryan Himmler.

Mussolini's sudden discovery that the Italians were really Aryans, thus making them also fit to associate with the Aryans who overrun their land in increasing numbers, is all of a piece with this. And of course the Japanese are now honorary Aryans.

It is not enough that the whole world should stew in blood. It must be served up in a sauce of dreadful tosh, to boot.

Remember Evangeline?

Once again the shadow of war lowers over the vast meadows stretching toward the sea in the basin of Minas, in the same Nova Scotia in which another war so ruthlessly parted a pair of lovers nearly 200 years ago. Every one who ever went to school will recognize Evangeline and Gabriel, the lovers of Longfellow's poem bearing the faithful girl's name.

Canadian officers, seeking a proving ground for artillery, looked longingly at the broad meadows by the sea. Eviction of 15 farms would have been necessary, all occupied by Acadian farmers much like those who surrounded Evangeline.

This "second expulsion of the Acadians" was protested, and the officers persuaded to seek another and undeveloped site. Probably they will do so, but it is odd that nearly 200 years after one war brought tragedy to a generation of unoffending Acadians, another war should again seek out their remote home to threaten their unoffending seclusion.

Germanizing The Dead

Probably the thing that will cause Nazism to fail in the end is a certain lack of that last saving grace, humor. We don't mean humor in the crude sense of ability to see a joke, but in the broad connotation of a certain sense of the fitness of things.

In Alsace, perennial shuttlecock of the German-French game, the Germans are now campaigning to "make the district German" once and for all. Alastian men named Henri, for instance, have to change that name to Heinrich. But not only that. All tombstone inscriptions are also to be in German.

No Nazi will see anything wrong in that. But there are plenty of others left in the world who will, and it is more than possible that it is little stupidities, little obtusities, little callouses over the more tender parts of the spirit, which will some day stop the Nazis where the tanks and turrets failed to stop them.

As Others See Us . . .

The Japanese have always liked baseball, Though now aligned politically with axis, and feeling less than cordial to Uncle Sam who introduced them to the game, the Japanese are not giving it up.

They still like the game, but they are eliminating the American terms imported with it. Instead of "Play ball!" impeccable Japanese umpires will now shout "Let the contest begin!" And instead of "foul," "strike," or "out," long Nipponese tongue-twisters now split the air.

Silly? Well, let's not be premature. Now we know how we must have looked to outsiders when we swapped sauerkraut for Liberty Cabbage.

To Have And To Hold

Hitler has Europe. Can he hold it?

The winter comes, and from the Black Sea to the North Sea, from the Norse fjords to the Adriatic, the grey-clad legions rule supreme. Millions of people do not eat unless the men in grey assent.

Here four heads fall as stern repressive measures clamp down. There a group goes silently to prison. Out of the vast silence that is Europe come only little wisps of information to tell how the conquered millions fare. We cannot know the truth, for truth was the first to be interned.

But from scraps of news seeping out under the barriers here and there, we may guess that perhaps to have was easier than to hold.

I had to persuade the professor that a woman of 78 had as much right to learn acting as a girl. I finally wore him down.—Adeline Reynolds, 80, who has just signed a movie contract.

We all know the movies are reluctant to express a vigorous opinion. They come out boldly for love, but they avoid taking a stand on any other current problems.—Robert E. Sherwood, playwright.

If we are unwilling to defend our rights by force, if necessary, we soon will have no rights to defend.—Admiral Harry E. Yarnell, retired.

I, myself, negt get mad.—Mayor La Guardia of New York.

Upset World Forcing U. S. To Sit Tight In The Philippines For Next Few Years

By PETER EDSON
Editor, NEA Service

MANILA, Philippine Islands.—The government of the Philippine Islands is sending to Washington this month its speaker of the house in the national assembly, Jose S. Yulo. Unofficially, Speaker Yulo will sound out American public opinion on the question of granting the Philippines their independence in 1946, as provided for now under the Tydings-McDuffie act of 1934.

If Speaker Yulo is able to learn anything concrete about his unofficial and more important mission, he will have something there that most of the American people and most of the Filipinos themselves don't yet know.

For the whole problem of the Philippines is one big long series of almost unanswerable questions.

Do the Philippines want independence?

Do the United States want to drop the Philippines like the bushel of hot potatoes they are?

If the Filipinos want to cut loose, should the U. S. guarantee their independence, spending a few billions for their defense?

Has the whole question of Philippine independence been brought up a generation too soon?

Should both Philippines and Americans put the issue on the shelf, going along as they are now set up for another 10 or 25 years?

Should the setup be changed, and the Philippines be granted a kind of dominion status—something that doesn't now exist within the framework of American government?

If the United States does not let go the Philippines, should we take them over bodily and give them territorial government such as we now give Alaska and Hawaii.

Should the Philippines ever be considered for statehood and admitted to the Union?

If the United States cuts loose from the Philippines, will the Japanese gobble them up?

The answer to the last question is probably the easiest one of the bunch to answer, and it is very definite, "Yes."

Japanese Good Citizens

The story of Japanese filtration into the Philippines has been told many times. The northernmost point of the Philippines is only 78 miles from Formosa, southernmost of the Japanese islands. Immigration is now restricted, but over the years the Japanese have built up a substantial colony in Davao, southern Mindanao, where they raise everything that rich countryside permits, in a soil so fertile and a climate so hot that it will grow three crops of corn in a little over a year.

These Japanese make good citizens. They work like bees, they know how to get along with Filipinos, they are law-abiding and they obey their consul. Japanese good-will missions pour into the islands at all times—official overseers, trade and tourist bodies, delegations of bespectacled students on vacation to observe conditions. All of them are, apparently, building up pro-Japanese sentiment and looking to the day when they can walk in and help themselves.

There is loose talk among some Americans long resident in the islands, to the effect that the Filipino really likes the Jap better than the white man. But to offset that, there is good substantial talk from leading Filipinos that they don't want to be cut loose from hte United States, in 1946 or any time thereafter. This talk has crystallized into a movement with a name, the Re-examination Movement.

Get a number of the leaders of this Re-examination Movement together and you will hear surprising things. These leaders are, they more or less openly admit, the Tories of the Philippines. They include a few men in high government positions. They are business men, planters, bankers, mine operators, professors, newspapermen and a few Americans. These are the men who, realizing that 70 per cent of the Philippine trade of about $250,000,000 is with the United States, just don't want to see it kicked out the window for the Japanese to pick up.

Political Football

They further maintain that the Independence act was passed too soon, that the Filipinos don't really understand its consequences, and that the status quo of U. S.-Philippine relations should be maintained for some years to come. Leaders of this movement have in recent months openly made speeches on the floor of the National assembly to further this point of view. A few years ago it would have been political suicide to espouse openly this cause.

The most confusing point about the entire situation is that the Independence issue has been kicked around like a political football by the Filipino nationalist leaders and like an economic football by American business men and politicians so short-sighted as to be almost blind. The result is a Grade A mess which is the Philippine problem.

Reconsider, for a moment, just what the Philippines are. The entire archipelago consists of 7,000 islands, 466 of which are a square mile or larger, 4,600 of which are still unnamed. Their total land area is slightly larger than Great Britain, slightly smaller than Japan. They stretch 1,150 miles north and south, 660 miles east and west. They are inhabited by 16,000,000 people who produce for export principally gold, sugar, copra, hemp, cocoa oil and tobacco.

To weld this scattered semicivilization, the Filipino leaders had to have an issue. They made that issue Nationalism, and Uncle Sam altruistically encouraged them in this ambition.

Best Course: Sit Tight

Aiding and abetting these nationalists has been an American lobby made up of four strange bedfellows:

1. The sugar lobby, which resented and would like to freeze out competition from Philippine sugar.

2. The dairy products lobby which resented the competition that cocoa oil, going into the manufacture of margerine, gave to U. S. dairy products.

3. The pacifist lobby which fears the Philippines may lead us into war with Japan.

4. The isolationist bloc which would have the United States get out of every inch of land not North American and stay out.

All these elements combined, in 1934, to obtain passage of the Independence act. There is provision in the act that a conference shall be called in 1944 to consider how trade shall be conducted if independence is granted, fully and finally, in 1946. But the whole problem of Philippine independence can be reconsidered at this 1944 conference if both the United States and the Philippines signify they want the act repealed. If neither signifies any desires, the law will stand as it is on the books now, and the U. S. will then kiss the Philippines goodby.

Solving the problems of the Philippines probably involves sitting tight for the next four years. The result of war in Europe, the possibility of more trouble in the Pacific, will have no small bearing on the outcome, regardless of internal affairs.

Survey in Work Of WPA For Past Five Years

Area Engineer In It Asserts Roads Are Improved

Considerable work done for peacetime purposes by Pettis county men employed by the Work Projects Administration in the five years it has been in existence could become part of the "second line of defense" in this country's mounting preparedness program, a survey made by Ralph G. Mathewson, WPA area engineer, shows.

Good roads will be of vital importance to the movement of farm products and materials essential to a stepped up industry of troops and military supplies, Mr. Mathewson points out, adding that public buildings suitable for the accommodation of large assemblages or supplies or both might be used in many instances in the defense effort.

Feeder Roads Work

Most of the WPA work in this county, he says, has gone into Farm to Market, or feeder routes and building construction.

His survey shows that the road jobs now add up to approximately 200 miles of all-weather roads, which would, if lead end to end, extend from La Monte to the city limits of St. Louis. These roads vary in width from sixteen (16) feet to twenty-four (24) feet, most of which have adequate drainage structures in place.

It points out Pettis county's WPA constructed and rehabilitated buildings numbering approximately six (6), which might conceivably be used for the concentration of men or the storage of supplies and materials. The county home could be used for temporary quarters for a limited number of men; the court house for executive quarters; fire house and other buildings for storage of materials. The Negro hospital that is now being built would add to the first aid of sick and wounded, as would the Bothwell hospital, on which the WPA has expended some money in rehabilitation.

The Armory, which will be started within a short time will materially add to the "second line of defense."

Some work has also been done within the city of Sedalia on their sewer system.

Improvements At Fair

Another special project that should be mentioned here is the Missouri State Fair grounds. On this project, practically every main building there has had some rehabilitation work done. There has been built a fairly complete water and sewer system, concession stands, equipped with water, gas, electricity and sewers, where several thousand men could be efficiently fed; many modern drinking fountains scattered over the grounds; several miles of streets have been built. A portion of the grounds has been leveled, that could be used for parade or drill grounds. The buildings are completely modernized, and several of them will be used for the concentration of troops within the coming months.

An average of approximately 650 men per month have been given employment on WPA projects in Pettis county during these five years.

Home Entered And $30 Taken

R. B. Perriguey, 2007 West Broadway, reported to police officers at 12:50 o'clock this morning, that some one had entered their home, and took a leather bill fold, containing something over $30 from the pocket of Mr. Perriguey's trousers.

Mrs. Perriguey said she was awakened by a flashlight in the room. She wakened Mr. Perriguey and they arose, to find Mr. Perriguey's trousers, which had been in the closet at the food of the bed, lying on the floor, and the money gone.

Entrance, they said, was made through the front door, which had not been locked.

William Thornton Maltby

William Thornton Malty, aged 54 years, manager at Tulsa, Okla., for the Dun and Bradstreet company, passed away at 9 o'clock Saturday morning at his home, 1439 South Denver, in that city, death resulting from a second stroke he suffered about half an hour before the end came.

Mr. Maltby, a former Sedalian, was born in this city, the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William J. Maltby, receiving his education in Broadway and old Sedalia high school, and later furthering it at the Rolla School of Mines at Rolla, Mo.

Before reaching manhood he accepted a position here with the R. G. Dun agency under Alva L. Lee and later held a position with that company at Salt Lake City, Utah.

On May 18, 1907, he was married to Miss Estella B. Agee, of LaMonte, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William H. Agee. After his marriage he served with the Dun company in St. Louis and St. Joseph, Mo., and later was assigned to Sedalia, in charge of a district office then operated in this city, as manager.

About twenty years ago he was transferred to Tulsa as manager of a larger district, and some time later the agency's affairs in Sedalia, were given into the hands of a local representative. Since the Dun company merged its business with the Bradstreet company, he had retained the managership.

He was a member of the Rotary club at Tulsa, the Wheeling Avenue Christian church, in which he was active, and also was interested in various civic affairs there.

Mr. Maltby's illness dates back to the early part of August, when with Mrs. Malty, "Billy" Agee and Miss Kathryn Courtney, the latter of Sedalia, he suffered a stroke in a hotel at Marion, Va., while on a trip that was to have covered a part of the south and east. For a few weeks his life was then despaired of at the Lee Memorial hospital where he was a patient, but he showed sufficient improvement to be taken to Tulsa, where continued betterment was evidenced up to the time of the second stroke.

Mr. Maltby, besides his widow, is survived by a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Butt, of Albuquerque, N. M., a brother, Harold Malty, of 216 West Sixth street, Sedalia, who is a patient at the U. S. Veterans' hospital at Excelsior Springs, and a nephew, Hal-Bill Maltby. Mrs. Maltby will go to Excelsior Springs today and return with her husband.

Mexico Dreams Up a Navy—Builds Army in Hemisphere Defense Plan

Mexico's army could offer stiff resistance to any threat of invasion. Above are some of its units, and a determined Indian soldier.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

MEXICO, D. F., Mexico.—The best army Mexico ever had, and an infant navy just beginning to sit up and cry for nourishment, are today's contributions to hemi-phere defense south of the Rio Grande.

The army, 52,000 strong, is better equipped and trained than ever before, and may triple in size within a year as result of a compulsory training bill recently adopted. The navy, almost as little known in Mexico itself as in the United States, is badly undernourished.

But this infant fleet is now under the control of a professional navy department which is earnestly trying to build it up. It is putting up a game struggle to patrol the thousands of miles of remote coastline which offer hideouts for possible fifth column activities.

With present facilities of 400 officers and 4,000 men, it admittedly isn't doing the job effectively.

Navy Pilots Have No Planes

Up to a year ago Mexican naval vessels had been in charge of the army. Today the Departmento de la Marina is one of the busiest places in all Mexico.

Smart "gobs" pace before its entrance. Immaculate officers hurry down the stairways. There are even the spic-and-span uniforms of naval aviators, trained by the army to fly, though as yet they haven't a single plane.

What they have is ten new and three old coast patrol boats similar to our coast guard cutters, four somewhat heavier gunboats, two transports, a couple of heavier ships now laid up and out of operation and some smaller craft.

What they need is a few modern destroyers, a mosquito fleet of torpedo boats and a small but good naval aviation.

Unless the United States helps, the chance of getting them is small. For on a budget of 16,000,000 pesos a year ($4,000,000) this navy department not only runs its ships and trains its men, but supervises yards and docks, and regulates the fisheries industry and the merchant marine. The latter is also still largely on paper.

The regulation of fisheries gives the navy some control over Japanese fishing boats which, especially along the Lower California coast near Ensenada, present the same problem that they have farther north. Such boats are not allowed in Mexican waters without a license issued by the navy, but the patrol is so inadequate that occasional violation is likely.

Dreaming of Destroyers

Plans are under way for establishment of a marine corps of five battalions totaling about 2,000 men for coast and base defense and landing operations. But that, too, is a dream like the ships to be commanded by the 150 cadets at the Vera Cruz naval academy and the 150 merchant marine officers training at Mazatlan.

Capt. David Coello Ochoa, secretary-general of the Marine Department, has the weather-beaten face and narrow eyes men acquire from hours on the bridge. He and his chief of ministry, Roberto Gomez Maqeo, have ambitious plans for a really effective coastal navy.

When it was suggested that perhaps the United States might arrange transfer to Mexico of a half-dozen destroyers of the type recently sent to England, Captain Coello'e eyes took on the faraway look of a sailor gazing into some beautiful sea-mirage, and he whispered, "That's what we dream about."

The Mexican army, on the other hand, is the best Mexico has ever hand. There are 52,000 officers and men, and every year sees an increasing number of professional officers and well-trained and equipped troops.

The reluctance of army officers to be drawn into the recent election squabble reflects this. It is likely that two-thirds of the officers in the army favored Almazan, the candidate declared defeated. In former days many would have rushed to revolution. But the American spirit of an army at the disposal of the civil authority is replacing the old Mexican tradition of an army as president-maker.

Young men hoping to make a career of the army are slower to back what may prove to be the wrong horse and thus end o promising life.

Army Maneuvers Purse Strings

The bloc of 30 army officers in the Chamber of Deputies and six in the Senate assure that the present army budget of 96,000,000 pesos ($24,000,000) will be greatly increased in 1941. This is necessary to plug gaps in the army equipment, now weak in transport, anti-aircraft guns, tanks and airplanes.

Mexico has today only about 50 airworthy planes, and these are of 1930 vintage. The United States has on hand plenty of planes, obsolescent for our uses, but suitable for Mexican needs, and far better than those now on hand. A deal for some of these has been discussed, but never conclusively.

Mexican army officers now visiting the United States as part of the Pan American army inspection tours are probably no strangers to U. S. army ways, as contact between the two armies along the border is cordial and frequent. The younger officers, especially those trained at the Chapultepic academy on a professional basis, are frequently admirers of American military ways.

Under the Mexican conscription bill passed this year, the size of the active army and trained reserves is expected to be tripled within a matter of months.

Mexico, competent military authorities believe, could with a little help become capable of stiff defense against any threat but a full-dress invasion by a major power.

Closed Season On All Game

Hunting season is closed on all game from November 1 until November 10, with the exception of duck hunting. This law is to protect the quail season which opens on November 10 and lasts until December 31.

A discussion over the working of bird dogs arose among hunters here the past several days. The ruling is that bird dogs can be worked in the field until November 10, but no guns are allowed to be carried in the field for hunting.

This law was announced because many hunters took advantage of their squirrel and rabbit hunting and shot quail out-of-season, and at the same time used their dogs.

Never Repeated

Only once in history, during Lincoln's term, were five living ex-Presidents of the United States known. This unusual number was a result largely of the fact that no President elected between 1836 and 1860 served more than four years.

Death Ends Six Years In Sleep

AKRON, O., Nov. 5.—(AP)—Death last night ended seven-year-old Dorothy June Russell's six-year-sleep.

When she was less than a year old she was stricken with whooping cough, followed by encephalitis or "sleeping sickness." She fell into a coma from which she never recovered.

Her unusual case was studied widely by medical science but all attempts at a cure failed.

At first, fed with a spoon, she grew normally. Then, losing weight, she was placed in a hospital here Thursday in a vain attempt to feed her artificially.

More Seats In Senate To GOP

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A resurgent tide of middlewestern votes which ran counter to the national Democratic trend carried Republicans today to a six-year high point of 28 seats in the new Senate.

That meant four more places than they now hold but was far below the Democratic total of 66.

Party voting which cut through the Roosevelt majorities in Ohio, Illinois and Minnesota and paced the Willkie strength in Nebraska and Indiana, gave the Republicans five seats previously held by Democrats. The only offset to this was the Republicans' loss of a seat in Delaware.

The last race to be decided was in North Dakota, where former governor William Langer won the senate seat formerly held by Lynn Frazier, defeated by Langer in the Republican primary. William Lemke, Independent, finished second in the contest.

When Vice-President Garner—or a substitute—pounds the gavel at the first meeting of the 77th Congress January 3, there will be more members on the Republican side of the aisle than at any time since the 73rd Congress, in which 36 served, quit on June 18, 1934.

Henry Agard Wallace, 52-year-old former secretary of agriculture, will as the new vice-president become presiding officer Jan. 20 of a Senate composed of 66 Democrats, 28 Republicans, 1 Progressive and 1 Independent. The present Senate includes 69 Democrats, 24 Republicans, 1 Progressive, 1 Independent and 1 Farmer-Daborite.

Some senators said that Wallace might begin his career in the legislative field in the absence of his predecessor. They thought that "Cactus Jack" Garner might not come out of retirement at his Uvalde, Tex., home to participate in the ceremony of handing over the gavel to the new vice-president.

Of 13 new senators, seven will be Republican and six Democratic.

New Ones To Take Oath

Republicans who will take the oath for the first time include:

Raymond E. Willis, Angola publisher who defeated Senator Sherman Minton, Indiana Democrat and majority whip in the Senate, in a close race.

C. Wayland Brooks, Illinois lawyer who played an important part in drafting the foreign affairs plank of the Republican convention platform and who unseated Senator James M. Slattery, a Democrat.

Hugh A. Butler, Nebraska Republican, who won over Governor Robert Leroy Cochran, a primary victor over Senator Edward R. Burke, Democrat.

Harold Hitz Burton, Republican "reform" mayor of Cleveland, who proved his vote-getting ability by capturing the seat voluntarily vacated by Senator "Vic" Donahey, Democrat, despite an Ohio sweep for Roosevelt.

Gov. George D. Aiken of Vermont, who won the seat vacated by the death of Senator Ernest Gibson, Republican, and filled temporarily by Gibson's son.

Rep. Ralph O. Brewster, who won the Maine contest in September to fill the vacancy created by the voluntary retirement of Senator Frederick Hale.

Four Upsets

Willis, Brooks, Butler and Burton furnished four Republican upsets by winning Democratic seats. Senator Henrik Shipstead of Minnesota, accounted for the fifth change by shifting his party designation from Farmer-Labor to Republican and winning re-election.

Democrats who will take the oath for the first time include:

James Miller Tunnell, Delaware lawyer and banker, who rode along with the Roosevelt majority to capture the only seat taken away from the Republicans, that of Senator John G. Townsend, Jr.

Ernest W. McFarland, Arizona superior court judge, who defeated veteran Senator Henry Fountain Ashurst in the Democratic primary and won easily over his Republican opponent.

Rep. Abe Murdock, of Utah, victor over Senator William H. King in the Democratic primary and over his Republican opponent in Tuesday's voting.

None Of Red Cross Supplies Sent Abroad Are Confiscated

None of the garments or other supplies sent to Europe by the American Red Cross have been confiscated or directed to other countries, was one of the points brought out at the regional Red Cross conference held in Kansas City last Friday. There are 17 states in the region.

Attending from the Pettis county chapter were Mrs. Arthur Kahn Mrs. Albert Wright, Mrs. R. F. Rohn, Miss Agnes Quin and Mrs. Robert Spencer.

The 650 representatives in attendance were guests of the Kansas City chapter and the meetings as well as a luncheon were held at the Hotel Continental. As is customary in the Kansas City chapter, all the Kansas City workers wore uniforms of various color combinations, representing the different activities of the chapter.

Sound Movement

In reference to the international phase of the work with Red Cross organizations located in 63 countries, it was pointed out that the soundness of its movement has been proved by the manner in which the societies throughout the world have rushed assistance to the warring nations of Europe. The potential power of the volunteer service at home and the swift mobilization of its forces account for the success of the Red Cross organization, it was stated. There are 3,700 chapters in the United States.

The outstanding Junior Red Cross organization named at the regional meeting is the one in St. Joseph. It has an enrollment of 7,000 children members. One of the activities is to collect tinfoil which is sold and the proceeds go to the Crippled Children's Fund.

One of the duties of the 1,500 Red Cross representatives assigned to the war is the establishment of contact between families and the 2,500,000 prisoners of war. There are 4,000 inquiries every 24 hours.

No Supplies Last

In the report on supplies sent abroad it was revealed that 165 ships have been sent from this country and not one has been sunk. Over 1,000,000 garments and 10,000,000 surgical dressings have been provided by volunteer workers in the United States. More than 36,000 layettes have been sent for English babies, most of whom have been born during the recent months of bombing.

No aid has been sent to France by the Red Cross in the last two and a half months since its fall to the Nazis, it was emphasized at the conference or to other occupied countries, and no relief has gone to Poland since Italy entered the war. Finland, the victim of Russia, is still being helped and some aid is being extended to Belgium.

In the almost obscured Far Eastern conflict between Japan and China, the latter oppressed land is being sent needed drugs and 630 tons of medical supplies have been shipped there. Recently three Red Cross representatives went to China to study the situation carefully.

Conscription Camp Service

At present the aid that is being given Great Britain is for the relief of the sick, wounded and the refugees. $2,000,000 was sent to Great Britain up to August 1 and it is believed an equal amount has been sent since that time.

The Kansas City conference was an annual one and reports were given on the various other projects. William M. Baxter, Jr., of St. Louis is manager of the midwestern area.

It was brought out that in addition to meeting the needs of war veterans, the Red Cross secretaries will in case of necessity be the medium whereby families at home may have news of the young men in the conscription camps. Every military camp will have its Red Cross director.

Figures on the Red Cross projects include 94,000 trained in life saving; 37,900 trained in First Aid; 100,000 given relief aid; 850,000 juniors assisted and 500,000 volunteers have worked in making garments, surgical dressings and knitted goods.

Babson Sends In Congratulations

WELLESLEY, Mass., Nov. 7.—(AP)—Roger W. Babson, defeated new Prohibition party candidate, today congratulated President Roosevelt on his reelection.

"Hearty congratulations," said Babson. "A defeated statistician however, humbly reminds you that one per cent of the vote properly allocated would have elected Wendell Willkie. Pettis county's interest in the general election Tuesday was shown by the large number of votes cast, the total exceeding the number of persons voting in 1932 and 1936 by approximately 1,000 votes.

The Republicans won most of the county offices. That party is sure of six of the nine county offices to be filled, and the seventh, now given to a Republican, may depend upon the absentee ballots.

According to unofficial figures Lawson Clingan, Republican, is 74 votes over his opponent, John W. Menefee, for assessor. Mr Menefee is the present incumbent. There are 218 absentee ballots now on file in the clerk's office, with six more applicants out that may be received before evening. Both candidates are anxiously waiting the result of the absentee vote count.

Scratching Numerous

It was a most unusual election in this county. Not only was the vote one of the largest in years, but there was considerable scratching, and because of that it was early this morning before completion of the county in some precincts. Not until the last precinct count was in did several of candidates know whether they had won or lost.

That voters scratched both the Democratic and Republican ballots was evidenced in the results. Willkie carried the county as did Manvel H. Davis, Republican candidate for U. S. senator and Forrest C. Donnell, Republican candidate for governor. The Democrats on the remainder of the state ticket led their opponents by a small majority.

Reuben T. Wood, of Springfield, Democrat candidate for representative in Congress, lost to his opponent Phil Bennett, also of Springfield, in this county, by 313 votes. Bennett is also leading in the district.

Fred Wesner Loses

Fred F. Wesner, of Sedalia, Democrat, lost the race for state senator in this county to George Miller, of Hermitage, by 120 votes. One hundred ten of the 112 precincts in the district gave Miller 21,485 and Wesner 17,897 votes.

The vote in Saline county was 7,925 for Wesner and 7,080 for Miller.

Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, Republican candidate for circuit judge, who was one of the party members who received a large number of votes, had no opponent on the Democratic ticket. Likewise, A. M. Harlan, Democratic candidate for justice of the peace, to fill the unexpired term of the late Bell Hutchinson, was unopposed.

Lane Over Scott

George Lane, Republican, won the office of county judge of the eastern district over his opponent, Malcolm Scott, the present incumbent. J. K. Lacey, Jr., Democrat, now serving as county judge of the western district, was re-elected, winning over Louis F. Ritchie, Republican.

Leo J. Harned, Republican, a former prosecuting attorney, was victorious over the present incumbent, Frank W. Hayes and Ross Bothwell, Republican, received a majority of the votes for sheriff, defeating John J. O'Brien, a former chief of police.

John W. Menefee, Democrat, seeking the office of assessor for the third term was defeated by Republican Lawson Clingan.

GOP Surveyor

Paul Graham, county surveyor, was defeated for that office by James Atkinson, Republican and Dr. W. T. Bishop, Republican, was elected coroner, over Dr. E. C. Snavely.

Forrest Poindexter, Democrat, was re-elected constable, defeating W. H. Fewell, a former sheriff.

While there has been no official county tabulation made of the vote on the seven constitutional amendments, the reports from more than half the pricincts show a large majority of votes cast were against the propositions.

Roosevelt Is Victor For His Third Term

Sweeps Nation In Shattering An Old Tradition

Democrats To Keep Control Of The Congress

By The Associated Press.

President Roosevelt, the precedent-breaker, smashed one of America's most ancient traditions today with a dramatic and sweeping victory in his battle for a third term.

His election was conceded in mid-morning by Wendell L. Willkie, his dogged, hard-hitting Republican opponent, who had made the third term question one of the two outstanding issues of a slambang campaign.

Throughout last evening Willkie sat in his hotel room, analyzing the returns and watching the president amass commanding leads in virtually all the key states having big blocks of electoral votes. But grimly, he clung to a dwindling hope of victory, and finally he retired with the announcement that not until today would he have anything to say on the election's outcome.

Concedes Defeat

Meanwhile, Senator Charles L. McNary of Oregon, Willkie's running-mate, conceded a victory for Mr. Roosevelt and Henry A. Wallace, the Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

The president spent last evening at his Hyde Park home, where in 1932 and 1936 he saw himself elected to the presidency, and where, just as in both those years, his happy neighbors thronged the spreading lawns and seranded him with bugles and drums.

The full extent of the president's victory could not be measured finally in advance of a more complete tabulation of the votes of several states.

Indications were that his popular plurality would prove considerably less than the margin of more than 10,000,000 by which he was elected in 1936.

In addition to a substantial lead in New York, the president held the advantage in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Missouri, Minnesota, New Jersey, California, and Illinois, among others. Willkie was leading in nine state: Colorado, Iowa, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Vermont. The nine have 63 electoral votes.

Helped along by the president's sweep, Democrats kept control of both the house and senate.

With returns in many congressional districts still incomplete, the democrats were certain of 237 house seats—19 more than the 218 needed for a bare majority—republicans were sure of 114 and the American labor party one. At this point democrats had won 17 house seats now held by republicans and republicans had captured six house seats now held by democrats, giving the democrats a net gain of eleven.

Among the republican house members who won reelection was Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachussetts, the party's national chairman.

Control of the senate was hardly in doubt because democratic holdovers and unopposed candidates in the south were almost sufficient to assure a majority. However, on the face of incomplete returns, 16 democrats and eight republicans were sure of election to senate seats. In four of these races the outcome represented a shift from one party to the other, Combined, these shifts gave the republicans a net gain of two.

To Play His Third Engagement As President

Victory came Tuesday night for Franklin Delano Roosevelt, whose third term candidacy was a major issue in the torrid contest, which ended Tuesday when the citizens of the United States registered their opinions at the polls in one of the heaviest balloting in years. Photos show Roosevelt, who grinned and waved to cheering Hyde Park homefolks, in two typical poses.

Wood Loses In Congress Race

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 6—(AP)—Missouri Republicans gained two seats in congress today, giving Rep. Dewey Short some GOP company for the first time since he was elected in 1934.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Phil A. Bennett of Springfield had a big lead over Reuben T. Wood, sixth district incumbent Democrat. And Walter Ploeser, insurance man and young Republican leader, defeated Democratic incumbent C. Arthur Anderson in the Twelfth district, which includes St. Louis county and part of St. Louis City.

At least seven Missouri congressmen, including Short, heretofore the lone Republican in the state's delegation, were re-elected on the basis of decisive returns from yesterday's election.

Besides Short, veteran Seventn district representative, they included William L. Nelson of Columbia, Second district; Richard M. Duncan of St. Joseph, Third district; C. Jasper Bell and Joseph B. Shannon of Jackson county, Fourth and Fifth districts, respectively; Clarence Cannon of Elsberry, Ninth district and John J. Cochran of St. Louis, Thirteenth district.

The Eleventh (St. Louis) district elected a Democrat, John B. Sullivan, former secretary to Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann, to succeed Rep. Thomas C. Hennings, Jr., also a Democrat, who relinquished his seat to make a successful race for circuit attorney of St. Louis.

Garner Doesn't Cast Ballot

UVALDE, Tex., Nov. 6—(AP)—Vice-President John N. Garner "took a walk" Tuesday—but not to the polls.

Unlike his wife, secretary and hundreds of Uvalde citizens he did not vote in the general election.

When his precinct box closed at 7 p. m., he had cast no ballot there and county officials said he had not voted absentee.

Secluded in his big brick residence, he gave no reason for breaking his voting habits of many years.

Election attaches said they could not recall when the vice-president had failed to vote heretofore.

This year Mrs. Garner voted at 8:15 a. m., 15 minutes after the polls opened, but Mr. Garner was not with her.
